STRONG HEADWINDS EMBARRASS ITALIA ON NORTHERN JAUNT

Nobile Off Course Several Times On Vadsoe Flight.

LONDON, May 4.—The North Pole exploration balloon Italia, which landed at Vadsoe, Norway, at 9:10 o'clock this morning while enroute for Spitzbergen, was hit by lightning in the storm which is raging over northern Norway, according to a Central News dispatch from Vadsoe this afternoon. The dispatch said that the envelope was torn. A radio-gram from Spitzbergen said that the gale had damaged the hangar at King's Bay which Nobile planned to use. This news was communicated by wireless and the Italian explorer was warned to postpone his flight.

OSLO, Norway, May 4.—After battling headwinds for almost thirty hours, the polar dirigible Italia landed at Vadsoe, Norway, at 9:10 a. m. today.

General Umberto Nobile, commander of the ship, was warmly greeted by the mayor of the town and a civic delegation. The ship's crew of sixteen were all in good condition.

The Italia will be refueled at Vadsoe today and will continue to Spitzbergen tonight, weather permitting, General Nobile said upon landing.

The Italia left Stolp, Germany at 3:25 a. m. yesterday. It encountered difficulty on the first part of the journey and made good speed until it had passed over Stockholm, Sweden.

Then Nobile began to run into difficulties. The strong headwinds drove the dirigible from its course several times and Nobile was forced to wireless to get his bearings. While crossing the Gulf of Bothnia the ship wandered aimlessly for some time, going east instead of north until Galma Karby was reached. There Nobile righted his course, but apparently lost it again.

Later the Italia was sighted over Brahestad, Finland, apparently off its course. Nobile radioed for directions and finally got his bearings and proceeded northward directly to Vadsoe.

At Vadsoe, the Norwegian government had prepared everything for the landing and refueling of the ship and a large crowd of spectators was on hand to welcome the Italian commander and his crew.

The silver-shedded ship circled the field several times while the crowd cheered. After releasing a quantity of helium gas, Nobile effected a landing without difficulty.

KROGER GIVES EACH CHILD $1,000,000

CINCINNATI, O., May 4.—The six children of B. H. Kroger, former president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, were today each $1,000,000 richer as gifts from their father.

Kroger said that he would rather give his children, B. H. Kroger, Jr., Chester F. Kroger, Mrs. Lucile Berne, Mrs. Gretchen Berne, Mrs. Rudolph Homan, and Mrs. I. W. Pettigill, the money while he is living rather than after his death so that he can watch what they do with it.

"All of them are over 21 years old and they ought to receive some training and experience in handling money now rather than after I am gone," Kroger said.

FEDERAL PRISONER ESCAPES AT DAYTON

DAYTON, O., May 4.—All guards of the Dayton Workhouse were to be alerted before the city welfare board for questioning today as to the escape yesterday of Harold Bleigh, 34, of Cleveland.

Bleigh, a federal prisoner serving a 100-day sentence on a charge of violating the national prohibition act, was alleged to have walked through the door of the city workhouse in which he had been confined a month. The door was unlocked when his escape was discovered.

MICHAEL ARLEN

Countess Meroati became Mrs. Kouyoumjian, Michael Arlen's real name, in a civil ceremony at Cannes, France. The couple, who announced their engagement several months ago, plan to take a trip around the world and live on a South Sea Island for some time before coming back to civilization.

CHICAGO'S FAMOUS RAINBO GARDENS TO BE PADLOCKED SOON

Fred Mann Is Given Ten Days To Close "Bright Spot"

CHICAGO, May 4.—The passing of Chicago's post-war "speakeasy" night club era, which has offered an artificial retreat for the die-hard merry-makers of pre-Volstead days, was seen today in the padlocking of Fred Mann's famous million dollar Rainbo Gardens.

Mann was given ten days to wind up his business, dispose of food on hand and pay off his creditors. The injunction was granted by Judge C. Lindley after Mann and his attorney, Benedict Short, acquiesced in a "consent" decree.

The action, in effect, left Mann in the light of pleading guilty, although it had not been charged that liquor was sold in his cabaret.

The injunction was granted on the testimony of undercover dry agents who told of seeing patrons imbibe from hip flasks after "set-ups" of gingerale and ice cubes had been furnished by Mann's waiters.

In serving of "setups" it was held is evidence of collusion to violate the prohibition law.

Mann's darkness twelve other famous cafes and night clubs with similar cases pending against them.

The wealthy owner of Rainbo Gardens was the recognized leader in the fight to save Chicago's tottering night life. Now owners and proprietors of the tinsel palaces admit the outlook is dark.

"What's the use?" asked Mann, shrugging his shoulders. He is reported to have spent a "cool" million in outfitting the Rainbo Gardens, known as the "brightest spot in town."

After the injunction petitions were filed against Mann's place, and twelve others, Mayor William Hale Thompson, close friend of Mann and a familiar figure at the "Gardens," made a trip to Washington, reputedly to protest to Secretary Mellon against the alleged discrimination against Chicago cabarets.

Mann declared that undercover dry agents did the drinking on the premises and that these agents tried in vain to entrap employees into selling or giving away drinks.

Cages against the other places will be rushed through immediately, it was said. They are, the Chez Pierre, Colosimo's, the Parody Club, Midway Frolics, Club Ansonia, Hollywood Barn, Alamo, Samovar, Blackhawk, Jeffery Tavern and the Plantation.

Within two weeks, it is believed, Chicago's once gay night life will be definitely a thing of the past.

ENGINEER DIES

NEWARK, O., May 4.—William F. Dayton, 81, said to be the oldest living engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was dead today after fifty-four years of continuous service.

Dayton was born in Hamshire County, Va., in 1847 and retired five years ago from active service as an engineer. He piloted the fastest passenger trains of the B. and O. lines between Newark and Cincinnati, for thirty years.

SOLO ENDURANCE TRIAL FAILS; FUEL RELEASED

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., May 4.—With his attempt to break the world's endurance flight record cut short by an accident to a valve on the gasoline tank of the plane Reliance, Lieutenant Roy L. Thomas this morning was making up for lost sleep. He was forced to land at the field here at 11:55 o'clock last night, after having been in the air for thirty-five hours, twenty-five minutes and eight seconds.

While Lieut. Thomas fell far short of the record of fifty-three hours, thirty-six minutes and thirty-one seconds, set by George Haldebrand and Eddie Stinson last month at Jacksonville, Fla., he established a new endurance record for solo flying. The previous mark of thirty-one hours and one minute was made by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh in his trans-Atlantic flight last year.

Lieut. Thomas was forced down when a dump valve on the main gasoline tank opened and the fuel was lost. It had been leaking for some time and officials at the field were prepared for the landing, which was made without mishap.

The tired aviator's first words upon climbing from the Reliance were: "Where shall I put the plane?"

He asserted he would have been able to break the world's record if the valve had not opened. When he began the flight at 12:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, he was carrying 480 gallons of gasoline.

THREE LIMOUSINE PLANES TO MAKE AERIAL GOOD-WILL TOUR

Planes Will Visit Forty Cities On Flights To California—Dayton Will Be Visited By Plane Making Central Route

NEW YORK, May 4.—Three huge trimotored limousine airplanes, built for comfort and speed, will leave New York early next week on an aerial "goodwill tour" across the continent to California, making stops at forty leading cities.

The object of the tour is to call attention to California and the strides it is making in aviation.

In the flight from New York to California the planes are to be occupied by prominent California business men. They are W. D. Longyear, treasurer of the American Bankers' Association and vice-president of the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles; Henry C. Maier, vice president of the Bank of Italy who was active in the establishment of a school for aeronautics at Stanford University, and C. Zook Sutton, a manufacturer.

Each ship will also carry two pilots, an official of the Western Air Express and three newspaper representatives. At times motion picture and newspaper photographs will be carried. Programs will be held at the various cities en route in co-operation with various chambers of commerce.

The planes, when they reach California, will be used on a new passenger air line between San Francisco and Los Angeles which the Western Air Express will operate.

The schedule for the trans-continental tour calls for the following stops:

Plane No. 1, northern route: Boston, Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Moline, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles.

Plane No. 2, central route: Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Dayton, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Amarillo, El Paso, Tucson, Phoenix, Oakland, Los Angeles.

Plane No. 3, southern route: Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Columbia, Atlanta, Montgomery, New Orleans, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland, El Paso, Tucson, San Diego, Los Angeles.

The planes were recently constructed by the Atlantic Aircraft Corporation at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J. They are triple-motored, develop 1,275 horsepower, will carry a load of 5,000 pounds and develop a speed of better than 150 miles an hour. Their cabins have all the luxuries, it is said, of the modern Pullman car. They are the largest and fastest commercial aircraft yet built in America and exceed in speed any commercial planes built in Europe. They have seats for twelve passengers and space for 1,000 pounds of mail or baggage.

Each ship will also carry two pilots, an official of the Western Air Express and three newspaper representatives. At times motion picture and newspaper photographs will be carried. Programs will be held at the various cities en route in co-operation with various chambers of commerce.

CANDIDATES ASKED TO TESTIFY BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

Fourteen Called To Tell Of Primary Expenses

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The senate's new "slush fund" committee will launch its public hearings on expenditures in presidential primary campaigns as soon as the candidates in both major parties reply to invitations to testify it was announced today by Senator Steiwer (R) of Oregon, chairman.

Invitations have been sent to six Republicans and eight Democratic presidential candidates. All were expected to agree to appear voluntarily instead of awaiting official subpoenas. Senator Charles Curtis (R) of Kansas, a Republican possibility, and Senator Walter L. George, of Georgia, a Democratic "dark horse," both announced they were ready to testify "on a moment's notice."

Curtis said he was ready to testify either today or tomorrow. The "slush fund" committee meantime will await replies from a majority of the fourteen candidates solicited before setting a definite date for the hearings.

The presidential candidates, asked to appear at the hearings, were Senators Curtis, James E. Watson, of Indiana, George W. Norris, of Nebraska, and Guy P. Hoff, of West Virginia, and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover on the Republican side, and Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, Senators James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, former Senators Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, and Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, and Governor Albert M. Ritchie, of Maryland, on the Democratic side.

The committee not only asked each candidate to say when he would appear to testify, but asked him to name all "authorized" chairmen, managers, treasurers and other representatives acting in your behalf. These will be examined after the candidates have testified.

It is the purpose of the committee to carry its investigation as far as possible before the Republican convention assemblies at Kansas City on June 12. This would give the committee but five weeks for its inquiry. Thereafter, unless some extraordinary development occurred, the inquiry would be limited solely to the campaign expenditures of the successful nominees in all political parties.

Senator Walsh may recall candidacy for nomination.

Friends Advise Dry Solon To Withdraw His Name

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Democratic presidential situation, which is fast becoming simplified through Gov. Al Smith's steadily mounting roll of delegates, may be still further clarified within the next forty-eight hours.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, back of whose candidacy there has been grouped the ultra-dry, anti-Tammany bitter-enders against Smith, is considering formally withdrawing from the contest. It was reported today that it might take the form of a message to his supporters in Montana requesting them not to present his name to the Houston convention.

Since the California primary on Tuesday, when he ran far behind Smith and Senator Reed of Missouri, Senator Walsh has been in consultation with his friends and supporters. A number of them have advised him to withdraw while there is still time to do so with dignity. Some of the more bitter anti-Smith advisers have not concurred in this, and have urged him to go to the very end, but they have been in the minority.

The candidacy of the Montana senator is considered by Democratic leaders to be in an untenable position. As matters now stand, Walsh is assured of but eight delegates at Houston, these being from his own state. And it is well known in Democratic quarters that the Montana delegation was listed in the Smith camp before Senator Walsh formally announced his candidacy some weeks ago.

Other events scheduled included presentation of new officers and the balloting on resolutions. The final general session of the congress will be held tonight.

The convention closes Saturday following a meeting of the board of managers during which the slate of the 1928 convention is to be chosen.

Dr. Garry C. Myers, of Cleveland College, speaking before the congress Thursday on "How We Annoy Our Children," advised parents not to "nag."

"Constant nagging is bad," Dr. Myers asserted. "When we grow up we forget a child's way of looking at things. Don't try to make your child another 'you'—one is enough."

HOPE PASSAGE OVER VETO BY PRESIDENT WILL BE SUPPORTED

"Farm Bloc" Jubilant Over Triumph After Long Fight

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The congressional "farm bloc"—jubilant over its most smashing victory in the four-year fight over the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill—today for the first time seriously considered the possibility of passing the bill over a presidential veto.

With a two-thirds majority already recorded in the senate and almost a two-thirds vote in the house, the bill will go to President Coolidge with the strongest congressional endorsement ever given it.

The action in the house last night was a remarkable triumph for the "farm bloc." After the house had once defeated the equalization fee—the heart of the bill—the "farm bloc" gained control, twice approved the fee and then passed the bill by a vote of 204 to 121. The senate vote was 53 to 23.

The final majority far exceeded the strongest claims made by backers of the measure, who had hoped to increase last year's majority of 26 to 50.

Although the bill passed by the house was an amendment to the senate measure, the bills involved the same principles. Little difficulty was anticipated by "farm bloc" leaders in ironing out the differences before the bill goes to Mr. Coolidge's desk.

The bill has now passed the senate four times and the house twice. The last real stand of opponents of the measure was made on a roll-call vote on the Aswell substitute, which omitted the equalization fee. The house substituted the bill on Wednesday by a vote of 141 to 120, and then last yesterday defeated it, 185 to 146.

Party lines, broken at the outset of the farm relief fight, remained broken to the end. Representatives of the cotton districts of the south divided on the equalization fee. The New York Tammany delegation, which was claimed solidly by the "farm bloc" split on the final vote. Republicans were divided; only the congressmen from the middle west, outside of the large cities, were solidly behind the bill.

As passed, the bill provides a $400,000,000 farm loan fund to be used by a federal farm loan board to control the agricultural surplus and stabilize prices.

Every agricultural commodity is included, a final effort to eliminate fruits and vegetables being lost. The federal farm board would have power to loan the $400,000,000 to co-operative organizations or corporations organized by co-operatives to market agricultural products.

It could take the surplus off the market and sell it abroad at a price below that in the United States. To make up the loss of "dumping" products, the board could charge the farmers of the nation an equalization fee.

The board would have the power to suspend operations anytime it found that farmers were increasing their production to such a point that the beneficial effects of the plan would be destroyed.

FORMER TREASURER BEGINS PEN TERM

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—Albert E. Wilcox, former city treasurer of Ashtabula, was in the Ohio State Penitentiary today to begin serving a two to twenty-one year term to which he was sentenced by the Ashtabula Common Pleas Court after pleading guilty to one of five indictments charging him with the embezzlement of Ashtabula city funds.

A shortage of $22,000 was discovered in the man's accounts last January. Wilcox was then arrested and afterwards released under $15,000.

Liabilities in the case were covered by the payment of $20,000 to the city by bonding companies, the National Bank of Ashtabula, where Wilcox was employed as assistant cashier, and by Wilcox turning over the equity he had in time in his home to authorities.

Wilcox was a high official in an Ashtabula church. He has a wife and a daughter who is said to be teaching school in an eastern city.

MINER SENTENCED FOR THREATENING

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., May 4.—Dan Morgan, Florence miner charged with threatening, was today under a thirty-day jail sentence and a $50 fine meted out to him by Judge W. W. Cowen of Common Pleas Court.

Morgan's offense was considered by officers to be less serious than that of rioting, with which fifty other miners are charged. Heavy sentences in cases of conviction were predicted by officials.

He asserted he would have been able to break the world's record if the valve had not opened. When he began the flight at 12:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, he was carrying 180 gallons of gasoline.

CANDIDATES ASKED TO TESTIFY BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

Fourteen Called To Tell Of Primary Expenses

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The senate's new "slush fund" committee will launch its public hearings on expenditures in presidential primary campaigns as soon as the candidates in both major parties reply to invitations to testify it was announced today by Senator Steiwer (R) of Oregon, chairman.

Invitations have been sent to six Republicans and eight Democratic presidential candidates. All were expected to appear voluntarily instead of awaiting official subpoenas. Senator Charles Curtis (R) of Kansas, a Republican possibility, and Senator Walter L. George (D) of Georgia, a Democratic "dark horse," both announced they were ready to testify "on a moment's notice."

Curtis said he was ready to testify either today or tomorrow. The "slush fund" committee meanwhile will await replies from a majority of the fourteen candidates solicited before setting a definite date for the hearings.

The presidential candidates, asked to appear at the hearings, were Senators Curtis, James E. Watson, of Indiana, George W. Norris, of Nebraska, and Guy P. Hottel, of West Virginia, and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover on the Republican side, and Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, Senators James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, former Senators Alton B. Parker, of Ohio, and Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, and Governor Albert M. Ritchie, of Maryland, on the Democratic side.

The committee not only asked each candidate to say when he would appear to testify, but asked him to name all "authorized" chairmen, managers, treasurers, and other representatives acting in your behalf. These will be examined after the candidates have testified.

It is the purpose of the committee to carry its investigation as far as possible before the Republican convention assembly at Kansas City on June 12. This would give the committee but five weeks for its inquiry. Thereafter, unless some extraordinary development occurred, the inquiry would be limited solely to the campaign expenditures of the successful nominees in all political parties.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Democratic presidential situation is fast becoming simplified through Gov. Al Smith's steady mounting roll of delegates, may be still further clarified within the next forty-eight hours.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, back of whose candidacy there has been grouped the ultra-right, anti-Tammany bitter-enders against Smith, is considering formally withdrawing from the contest. It was reported today that it might take the form of a message to his supporters in Montana requesting that they not present his name to the convention.

Since the California primary on Tuesday, when he ran far behind Smith and Senator Reed of Missouri, Senator Walsh has been in consultation with his friends and supporters.

A number of them have advised him to withdraw while there is still time to do so with dignity. Some of the more bitter anti-Smith advisers have not concurred in this, and have urged him to go to the very end, but they have been in the minority.

The candidacy of the Montana senator is considered by some Democratic leaders to be in an untenable position. As matters now stand, Walsh is assured of but eight delegates at Houston, these being from his own state. And it is well known in Democratic quarters that the Montana delegation was listed in the Smith camp before Senator Walsh formally announced his candidacy some weeks ago.

Dr. Garry C. Myers, of Cleveland College, speaking before the congress Thursday on "How We Annoy Our Children," advised parents not to "nag."

"Constant nagging is bad," Dr. Myers asserted. "When we grow up we forget a child's way of looking at things. Don't try to make your child another 'you'—one is enough."

CLEVELAND, O., May 4.—A round table conference of rural school teachers on the findings of the rural life sessions which were conducted preliminary to the thirty-second annual convention of the National Parent-Teacher Association, held in progress here, was to be held today.

Other events scheduled included presentation of new officers and the balloting on resolutions. The final general session of the congress will be held tonight.

The convention closes Saturday following a meeting of the board of managers during which the slate of the 1929 convention is to be chosen.

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—Thirty cases of "flu" have been discovered in the Ohio State Penitentiary here according to prison physicians today. All the men stricken are confined in the institution's hospital. The cases are mild, hospital attaches reported.

OXFORD, O., May 4.—Resignation of Dr. Eleanor N. Adams, president of Oxford College for Women since 1918, was today in the hands of the board of trustees of that institution. Dr. Adams will leave her post on July 1.

Impaired health necessitated Dr. Adams' retirement, the trustees announced. She has been on a leave of absence for several months due to illness.

Dr. Gilbert O. Pennock, rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, of Oxford, is acting president during Dr. Adams' illness.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—New York's millions of subway travellers are assured of at least ten more days of the nickel fare.

Justice Harlan F. Stone of the United States Supreme Court, agreed to consider issuance of an immediate stay against the I. R. T., if the company starts charging seven cents before May 14, when the city of New York's formal application for a stay will be heard by the full bench of the court.

HOPE PASSAGE OVER VETO BY PRESIDENT WILL BE SUPPORTED

"Farm Bloc" Jubilant Over Triumph After Long Fight

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The congressional "farm bloc"—jubilant over its most smashing victory in the four-year fight over the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill—today for the first time seriously considered the possibility of passing the bill over a presidential veto.

With a two-thirds majority already recorded in the senate and almost a two-thirds vote in the house, the bill will go to President Coolidge with the strongest congressional endorsement ever given it.

The action in the house last night was a remarkable triumph for the "farm bloc." After the OTTENHAM, Holland, May 4.—Explorers who have traveled thousands of miles discover some isolated place have nothing on Cyril Richards, English steward of a Holland-American line. He has traveled 1,000,000 miles to discover the bargain spots of the world—and has found them in every quarter of the earth.

"To get the best money's worth," says Richards, who would walk away with the title of Champ Bargainer if anyone would award it, "go to Martinique in the West Indies. There an American dollar buys a bottle of champagne. (It is $25 on the Bootleg Curb of New York—and then it is only pop and bicarbonate of soda.)

"If you're prohibition and wouldn't spend your money on liquor, take the dollar to Cape Town, Africa, and buy an elephant tusk (Russell later and make 2,500 to 5,000 per cent profit.)"

Oh, There Are Many Places. Last you do not hit these places in your ramblings, Richards rattles off other points on his 'round-the-world-bargain map:

"New York—Best bet is a railroad or steamship ticket in any direction, for they never have had a bargain on Manhattan since the Indians sold it for $24 worth of beads.

"Havana, Cuba—Cigars, but watch out for the dark ones.

"Colon, Panama—Silk suits for and ebony walking sticks at fire sale give-aways.

"Vigo, Spain—The cheapest place in the whole country for shawls.

"London—Men's clothes, where one can get a $100 and $135 suit for $35.

Tourists Spoiling It

"Prices were even cheaper," explains Richards, "before the tourists turned shoppers. Now in the larger ports on the regular tourist runs, one must watch out for gyping. But tactful persuasion often goes a long way to driving a point home."

This champ is a veteran of the Princess Patricia of Canada. He was wounded five times during the war, and then took to sea for a little vacation. He liked it so well he got a job as steward. He has been at it ever since, covering 131,000 miles in a good year, 71,000 in a bad year, and now is on his second million miles. He is only 32, and still is hopeful of finding other places where the dollar will be worth even more.

CONVENTIONS TO BE WIDELY BROADCAST WITH HUGE NETWORK

CHICAGO, May 4.—While Republican and Democratic forces are lining up for a final fight at Houston and Kansas City, at the national conventions, a complicated communication system is being perfected to assure adequate connections.

Phone installations have been authorized "from the rock ribbed coast of Maine to the sun kissed stretches of California," according to officials of the Western Electric Company.

Telephone and radio manufacturing experts here are rushing to completion plans which will make the conventions the most widely broadcast in history.

Special Hook-Ups

From Washington, urgent requests that a flood of special "hookups" be completed as soon as possible are coming from prominent political candidates, according to Western Electric officials.

Four main phone and carrier systems are being constructed from Kansas City. One involves a special series of carrier current lines to St. Louis, another special link with Minneapolis, a third a new wired "hookup" between Denver and Salt Lake City, and a fourth an installation terminating at Oakland, on the shores of the Pacific.

All sections of the country demand close connections by wire with the conventions. Politicians who do not attend the conventions will sit in their homes and offices and "pull the strings" over special lines to Kansas City and Houston.

Plans of publicity experts of the two conventions will be reflected in added telephone, telegraph and radio facilities running to ninety of America's leading cities.

Three prominent centers will be used as focal points for distributing convention gossip to smaller towns and villages in their vicinity.

Radio's Part

Radio is expected to play an important part in the 1928 convention. Broadcasting systems for both conventions already have been mapped out, and preparations are under way.

Most of the equipment for broadcasting is being made now in Chicago. Floods of radio orders coming in here at the Western Electric plants since January, two evidence of the magnitude of plans to inform the country of every move being made on the floor of the conventions.

Every possible broadcast marker, apparently, will listen in to some part of the hullabaloo, which goes with selecting a presidential candidate.

For the convention floor, special loud speakers are being constructed to permit orators and chairmen to drown out the roars of hecklers and the chatter of delegates.

CONVENTIONS TO BE WIDELY BROADCAST WITH HUGE NETWORK

CHICAGO, May 4.—While Republican and Democratic forces are lining up for a finish fight at Houston and Kansas City, at the national conventions, a complicated communication system is being perfected to assure adequate coverage.

Phone installations have been authorized "from the rock ribbed coast of Maine to the sun kissed stretches of California," according to officials of the Western Electric Company.

Telephone and radio manufacturing experts here are rushing to completion plans which will make the conventions the most widely broadcast in history.

Special Hook-Ups

From Washington, urgent requests that a flood of special "hookups" be completed as soon as possible are coming from prominent political candidates, according to officials.

Radio's Part

Radio is expected to play an important part in the 1928 convention. Broadcasting systems for both conventions already have been mapped out, and preparations are under way.

Most of the equipment for broadcasting is being made now in Chicago. Floods of radio orders coming in here at the Western Electric plants since January give evidence of the magnitude of plans to inform the country of every move being made on the floor of the conventions.

Every possible broadcast marker, apparently, will listen in to some part of the hullabaloo, which goes with selecting a presidential candidate.

ing to Western Electric officials.

Four main phone and carrier systems are being constructed from Kansas City. One involves a special series of carrier current lines to St. Louis, another special link with Minneapolis, a third a new wired "hookup" between Denver and Salt Lake City, and a fourth an installation terminating at Oakland, on the shores of the Pacific.

All sections of the country demand close connections by wire with the conventions. Politicians who do not attend the conventions will sit in their homes and offices and "pull the strings" over special lines to Kansas City and Houston.

Plans of publicity experts of the two conventions will be reflected in added telephone, telegraph and radio facilities running to ninety of America's leading cities.

Three prominent centers will be used as focal points for distributing convention gossip to smaller towns and villages in their vicinity.

VOL. II FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1928. NO. 26

We offer you Du Pont Semesan, Jr., as a disinfectant for treating seed corn without a peer. Fred McClain says it does the best job yet.

She: "Gosh! It's one o'clock and Mother has me locked out." He: "How in the world will you get in?"

She: "There's nothing to do but wait here until she comes home."

Our car of Ubiko was delayed a little but we hope to have it by the time you read this.

"You say his wife drove him to drink?"

"Yes, from the back seat."

The demand for Ubiko All Mash Starting and Growing Ration, the perfect and complete food for chicks until they're ready to lay, has been very much beyond our expectations. As a result we have been completely out of stock in 100 lbs. since last week. However a new stock will be here with the car.

A lot of radios are of the "Railroad Type." They whistle at every station.

There's one thing sure! The way Ubiko has been moving there's no danger of anything but the freshest of stock for all your wants.

Some men never get over being in love with the woman they think they are in love with.

We have a small quantity of each of two varieties of seed corn for sale.

We've just read of a Scotch lass who is so close she won't use perfume on a windy day. Cop: "Who was driving when you hit that car?" Drunk (triumphant): "None of us, we was all on the back seat."

When you get ready to buy your coal think of us. During the summer we will have a real proposition.

FLAMES CAUSE $6,000 DAMAGE AT F. L. SPAHR HOME FRIDAY

Fire believed to have been caused by defective wiring resulted in damage to building and contents estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000 at the residence of F. Leon Spahr, 564 N. Detroit St., at 11:45 a. m. Friday. The loss is entirely covered by insurance.

Gaining rapid headway before it was discovered, the blaze swept through the attic and burned off a large portion of the roof at the rear of the house.

Members of the family were seated at the dinner table when they were advised of the fire by Charles Adair and William Bankard, who had noticed a small blaze on the roof.

Upon investigation, Mr. Spahr discovered an innocent looking fire under the cornice on the north side of the house. Procuring a ladder he ran upstairs and looked into the attic. He found the interior of the attic a mass of flames and immediately telephoned the fire department.

Firemen confined the blaze to the attic and soon brought the flames under control, but not before the household furnishings on the two lower floors had suffered to a great extent from water damage.

A portion of the furniture was carried from the burning dwelling by volunteer helpers.

The owner could not account for the origin of the blaze, unless defective wiring was responsible. Due to the warm weather, the furnace had not been used for

PERIODS of time, like directions, are purely relative. Boys and girls now in their first year in high school think of the world war as a dark but extremely interesting chapter in their histories. To them Grover Cleveland and William McKinley lived incredibly long ago.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE LIFE OF GOD—My son, keep my words, and lay up my commandments with thee. Keep my commandments, and live; and my law as the apple of thine eye. Bind them upon thy fingers, write them upon the table of thine heart.—Prov. 7:1, 2, 3.

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

English as spoken in the United States seems at the moment to have the best chance to become the universal language. An artificial universal language is impracticable, but that the world may some day speak a common language is not improbable.

The language of the United States is now spoken in every country in the world, not only by Americans but by the natives of those countries. Residents and touring Americans are planting the seeds of their language from pole to pole and from the Occident to the Orient. Hundreds of thousands of Americans visit foreign countries annually, leaving their mark on the spoken languages of visited lands.

Immigrants to the United States, who return to their native lands after learning English are an important factor in teaching the world "American." From force of habit they will speak it and their countrymen are always eager to learn foreign words.

No matter where Americans roam on this great round earth they can find men to whom they can make their wants and thoughts known. The Grecian shepherd boy may be heard to call to the American traveler, "Hello, boy!" In London they are speaking American slang. Even in the Orient and in darkest Africa the words of the Americans are recognized and used.

When the universal language comes it seems now that it is more likely to be English than Esperanto, such as was devised by Dr. Zamenhof in 1887.

THE CLASH OVER TAX CUTTING

One of the most surprising features of the controversy over the safe total of tax reductions that can be made this year is the unshaken attitude of the federal taxation committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce in its long controversy with the federal authorities on taxation and budget needs.

Appearing at the new series of hearings before the senate finance committee, representatives of the chamber vigorously attacked the estimates of the treasury department, pointed to its errors in the past, repudiated its doctrines respecting the incidence of taxation, and adhered to the chamber's original demand for a total reduction of $394,000,000—or $100,000,000 more than the total provided for by the revenue bill as it passed the house.

The chamber has been a consistent and staunch champion of the balanced budget and of economy. It is not partisan and it has no political axes to grind. Yet it takes a position on the subject of tax reduction that is more radical than that of the Democratic leaders, and treats the positive recommendations of the treasury department with something like contempt.

This is a strange phenomenon. Has pride of opinion anything to do with the attitude of the chamber, or is it satisfied that the treasury is timid and wrong in its estimates? Whatever the answer, tax reduction is not furthered by such divergencies. The whole effort may fail, and that not only would disappoint business profoundly but would work injury to it as well.

MOTIVE

"What makes life dreary is the want of motive," said George Eliot. It is even better to have a little aim than no aim at all. Be sure of something you want to do, somewhere you want to get, somebody you want to be. Whatever gives life a purpose and a meaning to you is the thing that holds for you the possibility of happiness.

COURAGEOUS IGNORANCE

The courage to say you don't know is probably the real beginning of finding out some facts. The fear of most of us that we will appear ignorant is one of the causes of our remaining ignorant.

PUTTING OFF

Are you doing any of the things you've "always wanted to do"? Or are you still swinging your feet off a chair in the ante-room of life? Are you just talking about the things you are going to do "sometime"? Life is not long. We are living in the here and now. Today is your real chance at this world. If you are not doing some of them this year you will not be doing more of them next year. Do you remember a beautiful bit of verse by the eloquent negro poet, Countee P. Cullen:

"I have a rendezvous with life
In days I hope will come
Ere youth has sped and strength of mind,
Ere voices sweet grow dumb;
I have a rendezvous with life
When spring's first heralds hum.
Sure, some would cry it better far
To crown their days in sleep,
Then face the wind, the road and rain,
To heed the falling deep.
Though wet nor blow, nor space I fear
Yet fear I deeply, too,
Lest death should greet and claim me ere
I keep life's rendezvous."

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, May 4. — Sights for sightseers in the biggest city in the world:

The waiter in the Times Square beer emporium who carries 14 beer schooners without a tray and without spilling a drop. He attaches one to each finger and balances four on top. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh escaping public notice on a stroll down Fifth avenue by the simple device of wearing a raincoat and a hat. The sun glimmering upon the guns of battle-ships in the Hudson river. W. C. Fields, the famous stage and movie comedian, gazing at the side-show freaks at the circus. Christopher Morley, the novelist and poet, reading while balancing himself in a corner of a crowded subway car. The Leviathan going down to sea, as it appears from my office in the Times tower. Persons who stand in line three hours to gain admission to a movie theatre on Sunday.

The richest grand opera singer is Robert Ringling, son of the late Charles Ringling, and nephew of John Ringling. He is heir to fortunes amassed by the circus family in shows and other investments. His appearances in opera in this country follow study and initial performances abroad. He is a baritone, 30, married, and a motorboat enthusiast.

Only one of the second generation of Ringlings, a cousin of Robert, now has anything to do with the circus business. But despite his vast interest, which include control of Madison Square Garden, New York; heavy stock ownership in industrial enterprises, and control of big realty interests in Florida, John Ringling still keeps close touch with circus affairs. At a performance of the show in Madison Square Garden the other night, I saw him hovering in an exit, watching the performers with as much avidity as any boy present.

One of the worst novels of the season is enjoying extraordinary attention because it was chosen for distribution by one of the book clubs. The reason, those on the inside are declaring at literary teas, is because all the really notable books of that particular month were written by friends of the judges. To avoid suspicion of log-rolling, the judges picked a novel by some one they didn't know. The woman who wrote the book was as surprised as anybody.

The well-meaning guides who took George W. Russell, the world famous Irish poet and economist who is better known as AE, in hand on his long tour, didn't permit him to see much of the United States. They showed him plenty of sights, but gave him little opportunity to roam and explore.

He came up to my office in the Times tower for a visit the day before he sailed back to Ireland, and gazed long and lovingly at the New York skyline, remarking that it was his first chance to get a good look at it.

He said that the thing he missed most in the United States was grass that was really green.

A few nights before, at a dinner at the National Art Club, AE rescued an evening from dull speakers by talking for two hours in his musical, captivating voice, about the development of the new Ireland, in which, he says, poets are the motivating factors. He called a collection of his Irish literary friends, among them George Moore. When AE first met him Moore had been in Dublin for 10 days, and had employed six cooks in a vain effort to get an omelet done to his taste. One cook got so frightened at his antics that she called a policeman. Moore, non-plussed, brought the officer into the dining-room, showed him the omelet and asked, "Is there a law to compel me to eat this omelet?"

Putting Guests in Good Humor

The manager of a string of several famous hotels hit on the plan of placing a newspaper at the door of each guest-room in the morning. The cost of papers to the hotel is trifling, but each guest is saved calling on the telephone for the paper to be sent to him, and is saved also the strain on his temper of having to give a bellboy ten cents or more for bringing him a paper worth only three cents. He feels so kindly toward the manager for putting the paper at his door that he doubtless might be willing to overlook some item of inferior service if, by chance any should occur.

When this manager took charge of a great New York hotel, he tried another innovation. Instead of charging four cents for a three-cent newspaper at the hotel newsstand in the lobby, he charged only three cents—the price fixed by the publishers. Think of the will hotel managers in New York and elsewhere have stirred up by adding that extra penny to the price of a newspaper! The profit derived in this manner is small at best, and the resentment is stirred in many guests by the hotels thousands upon thousands of dollars. How shortsighted then must be the average hotel man in refusing to buy good will when he can have it for one penny!

When a guest remains a week or longer at one famous hotel, he finds in his room a bouquet of flowers or a box of candy. This little present doesn't amount to much in itself but serves to make the guests feel as if he had become an old and valued friend—as if he were now one of the inner circle. When he comes to town again he has a sort of homey feeling toward the place where the manager sent flowers to his room. Such courtesies cost little, but they

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

YOUR EYES PROCLAIM YOUR AGE

I am always afraid of telling you how to care for your eyes, lest in the enthusiasm of your efforts you do more harm than good. So I must preface my beauty aids with a warning! The structure of the face is made up of several layers of skin, but around the eyes the area is far more tender, with fewer and more sensitive tissues. Do you wonder then that massaging, or even a heavy finger, will injure the texture of your skin, even to the point of breaking down the elasticity, and bringing the inevitable lines and wrinkles? Do you wonder that the sag of an eye muscle develops ugly little puffy sacs, which are most difficult to get rid of?

Remember never to use a massage around your eyes. The heaviest movement permissible is no stronger than a very moderate finger tap. Never pull the eye muscles, and that means not only caution during the period of ministering to your appearance, but at other times as well. No one who is over 16 can afford to rub her eyes awake in the morning. And as for the digging, actually! — a knuckle burrowing way into the eyes, pulling and distorting all the surrounding area!—well, no woman at all apprehensive of her "staying power" as far as youth and beauty are concerned, would do such a heedless, foolish, reckless thing. Have I frightened you away from heavy-handed manipulations? I certainly hope so!

The bane of all women is crow's-feet. They come from squinting, from laughing, from nervous tricks of narrowing the eyes, and from improper nourishment of the tissues. A rich, nourishing, antiwrinkle cream is the main consideration for correcting lines and crow's-feet. There are, however, adjuncts to the cream which will make your treatment doubly beneficial. A chemical stimulant which will first force increased circulation into those lazy muscles, and render the skin doubly receptive to the feeding cream, will prove most valuable.

A most complete treatment is a careful cleansing to remove the dust and dirt that accumulates in the pores, the surplus to be gently wiped away with tissues, then on a pad of cotton a few drops of stimulant passed quickly over the area, and, finally, a very little nourishing cream "finger-printed" gently in all around the surface and re-taints over night.

Do not forget to treat your lids, omitting the stimulant, however, and you must be very careful about patting in the feeding cream, most carefully.

Puffy eyes denote sagging muscles, and sagging muscles require good balsamic muscle-tighteners. The entire method of treatment for puffy eyes is as follows: First, cleansing cream. A pasteurized cleansing cream is valuable for this condition, as it is mildly astringent. Follow with a refining lotion and muscle bracer on cotton pads. After it has dried in, pat the balsam in very gently, using firm but gentle pats with the third finger of your hand. Follow with another compress of refining lotion, and at night pat in a little of the anti-wrinkle cream to protect the area from becoming too dry under the astringent. It is not an immediate corrective, but a very certain one, and in dealing with advanced conditions of skin neglect, time is an all important factor in the success of these treatments.

MAY DAYS

It is May Day.
We are the children of long, long ago, of prehistoric and primitive times.

Food is scarce, and the struggle for existence is terrible and constant. We, being the weakest, are sacrificed. Abortion, cannibalism, drowning and abandonment to the elements, weed us out.

Those of us who belong to certain tribes, and are destined to live, are mutilated by holes bored in our ears, noses and lips, tattooing, and deformities of our skull and limbs. If we are born or unlucky days, or if we are twins, or even if we sneeze directly after birth, we are slaughtered, for we are considered unnatural and uncanny.

are the mortar between the bricks in the solid wall of good will. This same hotel also has its clerks instructed to send flower to the room of any couple who are on their honeymoon. If in doubt an experienced hotel clerk rarely guesses wrong on such question — he sends the flowers anyhow. Naturally there is not so noteworthy to a honeymoon couple as their recent marriage. To have a hotel manager recognize the importance of the event by sending flowers convinces them that he must be an extraordinary wise and capable hotel man, and that they have come to the right place. So far as they are concerned, they trust that their children and their children's children will stop at that same hotel.

If we happen to be girls, our fate is worse than if we are boys, for the male element is glorified, and only a few of the girls are allowed to live to become mothers so the race will not die out.

May Day may be our death day.

It is May Day.
We are the children of the Middle Ages.

Christ has come. "Suffer little children to come unto him, for such is the kingdom of heaven," he hath said.

Through the influence of Christianity, edicts against slavery and delivering us into slavery are issued. A new feeling towards parenthood and childhood is being developed.

May Day is now fairer for us.

It is May Day.
We are the children of the middle of the Nineteenth century.

Our death date is still high, but nearly so high as it was, for to this time little was understood of child hygiene, and the ills and pestilences had fostered differences and the children suffered terribly.

Where there are young people in the family they are usually fond of chocolate. The pudding that is made without it is often criticized. Milk puddings of various sorts are good for everyone—much better than pies and cakes—so we'll add a bit of chocolate to the rice and will hear no complaints that it is rice rather than pie or cake with "frosting."

Scald milk, add rice and salt and cook until rice is tender. Add butter, sugar, melted chocolate and vanilla and fold in the beaten egg whites and the cream, whipped. have oceans of fun. It is our festival day. We have plays, May poles and pageants.

It is fitting. May Day represents the springtime of the year, and we represent the springtime of life.

It is May Day.
We are the children of the present.

We have come into our own. It is understood now that if we are sound physically, mentally, and spiritually, we are as rocks upon which the nations and the race are to be built, and if neglected we are as shifting sands.

It is understood that our contacts and experiences have not fitted us to reason and to act as adults, and demands are made upon us only proportionate to the special state of our development.

We have sympathetic understanding. Laws are being passed to prevent of our having to labor at all.

The principles of child psychology, of discipline, of ethics and of life itself are being studied for our benefit.

It is known that to know, love and serve us is the most satisfying and soul-filling of all human activities.

It is May Day. It is still our festival day; we have May poles, plays and pageants.

But May Day now means much more than the fun and happiness for one day, for on this day throughout the nation, special thought is being given on how we can best be served.

All over the country, welfare associations, such as the American Child Health association, state boards of health and education, churches, Parent-Teacher associations, the American Red Cross, and men's and women's clubs, are meeting to discuss our needs for the future and to celebrate what has been done in the past year.

It is May Day. Now dedicated to us and known as National Child Health Day.

Our Kingdom is come. His will is being done on earth, as it is in heaven.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 4. — Let not the city feller fondly fancy that farm relief means nothing in his young life.

It does, two ways. The farmer wants more money. From whose jeans does the city chap suppose it'll have to come, but his'n—if anybody's.

Yet the city dweller can't let agriculture go broke. It's axiomatic that no city can stay prosperous for very long, if the country all 'round about it is hard up.

So it behooves us urbanites to devote some study to this plan we hear so much about, to improve the lot of our rural brethren.

The relief plan referred to is the McNary-Haugen plan. It isn't the only plan suggested, but it's the principal one. It's the one congress has partly passed already, and that they say President Coolidge means to veto. It'll come up again later, even if he does.

It's an interesting thing, whether you believe in it or not.

The McNary-Haugen plan aims to apply the protective principle to agriculture.

This isn't as easy as it sounds. What our manufacturers and industrial workers are afraid of is foreign competition. We bar this out—by means of a high tariff on imported manufacturers—by means of stiff restrictions on cheap immigration.

Protected thus, our manufacturers and workmen are able to keep their prices up—for their goods and for their labor.

Foreign competition isn't what bothers our farmers. They're competitors among themselves. Their grief is that they over-produce here at home, and consequently can't market their stuff—because there's too much of it—at decent figures.

The nub of the McNary-Haugen plan is to have the government pool all our corn and refuse to sell any part of them to American consumers except at a satisfactory profit for the farmers—a profit in proportion to the manufacturers' profits, and labor's wages.

Of course a surplus will be left. That will have to be unloaded abroad for whatever it will bring—but not here in the United States. Americans, at any rate, will have to pay more—to help the farmers out.

Anyway, that's the theory. It's supposed to be the protective principle, in reverse—for agriculture's benefit.

It's funny how our statesmen line up on the scheme.

It's conceived in the purest spirit of protection—there can't be any doubt about that. Yet from the White House, the ultra-protectionist President Coolidge denounces it as "uneconomic."

It's enough to make that late free trade apostle, Thomas Jefferson, shudder. Yet, in congress, we find the Democratic—hence historically anti-high tariff—followers of Al Smith giving it their heartiest cheer, and their votes, and promising to pass it over the president's veto.

Which it's hard to observe and not reach the conclusion that party politics is all bunk—on both sides.

COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE

Some time ago I was asked what I thought about companionate marriage. There was hardly space to discuss it very freely, but I said, as explained by Judge Lindsey himself, it was at least worth considering. Now a young woman writes her views of love and marriage, and I am glad to print it.

"My dear Mrs. Lee: I am, perhaps, a little past the 'freshie' age, but after all the good times I have had in good company with boys and girls, I have also taken great pleasure in good substantial reading. I enjoy conversation that otherwise I could not have entered into happily. I believe that girls should be willing to wait and become acquainted with different young men, and not be so ready to smile at every fellow that smiles at them. Many, I fear, even by well meaning parents, are denied real understanding, sympathy and love in their home and, craving love, too often become infatuated with boys who are no wiser or suited to them as life companions. This is equally applicable to the opposite sex. I may seem to be a confirmed 'old maid,' but I'm not so old, and think my chance for a happy home, with husband and children, is good. I'm glad I've waited, and I believe if there were fewer marriages there would be fewer regrets. Companionate marriages can never solve the problem. I cannot see how it can do otherwise than encourage vice, only making it seem a little more respectable, hence more dangerous. Not for me, thanks.

"Single at 28."

I agree with you, in part. As I understand it, Judge Lindsey himself, it was at least worth considering. Now a young woman writes her views of love and marriage, and I am glad to print it. ## MAPLE CREAM SAUCE

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

Maple cream sauce may be served with almost any kind of pudding, or if piled on squares of sponge cake, it makes an excellent dessert. Beat one cup of heavy cream until stiff. Add four tablespoons of thick maple syrup and one-half teaspoon of vanilla extract. Serve either as a garnish on the pudding or in a separate dish.

Peter's Adventure

A DAY GAINED

For some time, Mr. Hummingbird had not said a word. He appeared to be gazing at something on an opposite twig, but the boy could not make out what it was. New Mrs. Hummingbird nudged Peter's elbow.

"Husband is watching for spiders," whispered she. "I believe he has his eye on one now and if he has, nothing can save it."

Sure enough, on the other twig there was stretched a dainty web hung with dew drops that glistened in the bright rays of the sun. In the center of the web was a small spider and he was fast asleep.

Peter would have liked to warn the spider of his danger but he didn't know just how to go about it. Before he had time to think of a way Hummingbird was hovering over the web, and in the twinkling of an eye had snapped up the spider and made off with it. So quick and clever had Hummingbird been that he hadn't made a tiny break in the fine web. Not even a dew drop had been shaken from its place. Peter, much as he hated to have the spider come to such a sad and marvellous end at the little bird's skill.

"I should say no spider was safe from you!" cried he. "But I am surprised. I thought you Hummingbirds lived upon flower wine."

Mother Hummingbird shook her head. "A steady diet of just one thing would be bad for the digestion. We love honey wine better than anything else, but a bit of fresh meat once in a while keeps us in good condition. We eat an occasional fly, but spiders have the best flavor. Good gracious! Have I made a mistake and set on the nest for ten days instead of nine? Listen, husband. Don't you hear a scratching? I do believe that the eggs are going to hatch."

Mr. and Mrs. Hummingbird became much excited. First one and then the other cocked their head to listen, hopped about on the branch and rose into the air, hovering over the nest in great anxiety.

Peter knelt down and placed his ear close to the web. He heard a faint scratching within the shells and he wasn't certain whether or not he heard a weak "cheep, cheep."

Suddenly Mrs. Hummingbird spoke and her voice sounded quite sharp.

"Yes, the eggs are hatching, as sure as I am alive. On dear, oh dear, I am all of a twitter. If you haven't the sense to go away of your own accord I shall have to ask you to leave. Two-Legs. At a time like this there must be no strangers about. If the babies might stunt their growth, I have even known of a thunder shower stopping birdlings trying to break out."

"Now, wife, that is too bad," Mr. Hummingbird spoke reprovingly. "I don't think it would do any harm for the boy to stay. He can keep quiet and out of sight."

But Peter said that the little mother was beside herself with anxiety. He didn't wish to add to her troubles. Besides he felt sure that the second wee had popped from the shell Mr. Hummingbird himself would forget all about him. He would only be in the way. So he crept from the branch he softly

THE CLASH OVER TAX CUTTING

One of the most surprising features of the controversy over the safe total of tax reductions that can be made this year is the unshaken attitude of the federal taxation committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce in its long controversy with the federal authorities on taxation and budget needs.

Appearing at the new series of hearings before the senate finance committee, representatives of the chamber vigorously attacked the estimates of the treasury department, pointed to its errors in the past, repudiated its doctrines respecting the incidence of taxation, and adhered to the chamber's original demand for a total reduction of $394,000,000 or $100,000,000 more than the total provided for by the revenue bill as it passed the house.

NEW YORK, May 4. — Sights for sightseers in the biggest city in the world.
The waiter in the Times Square beer emporium who carries 14 schooners without a tray and without spilling a drop. He attaches one to each finger and balances four on top. Col. Charles A. Seward, the famous stage and movie comedian, gazing at the side-show freaks at the circus. Christopher Morley, the novelist and poet, reading while balancing himself in a corner of a crowded subway car. The Levitation going down to sea, as it appears from my office in the Times tower. Persons who stand in line three hours to gain admission to a movie theatre on Sunday.

The richest grand opera singer is Robert Ringling, son of the late Charles Ringling and nephew of John Ringling. He is heir to fortunes amassed by the circus family in shows and other investments. His appearances in opera in this country follow study and initial performances abroad. He is a baritone, 30, married, and a motorboat enthusiast.

Only one of the second generation of Ringlings, a cousin of Robert, now has anything to do with the circus business. But despite his vast interest, which includes the control of Madison Square Garden, New York's heavy stock ownership in industrial enterprises, and control of big realty interests in Florida, John Ringling still keeps close touch with circus affairs. At a performance of the Ringling Circus in Madison Square Garden the other night, I saw him hovering in an exit, watching the performers with as much avidity as any boy present.

One of the worst novels of the season is enjoying extraordinary attention because it was chosen for distribution by one of the book clubs. The reason, those on the inside are declaring at literary teas, is because all the really notable books of that particular month were written by friends of the judges. To avoid suspicion of log-rolling, the judges picked a novel by some one they didn't know. The woman who wrote the book was as surprised as anybody.

The well-meaning guides who took George W. Russell, the world famous Irish poet and economist who is better known as AE, in hand on his long tour, didn't permit him to see much of the United States. They showed him plenty of sights, but gave him little opportunity to roam and explore.

He came up to my office in the Times tower for a visit the day before he sailed back to Ireland, and gazed long and lovingly at the New York skyline, remarking that it was his first chance to get a good look at it.

He said that the thing he missed most in the United States was grass that was really green.

A few nights before, at a dinner at the National Arts Club, AE rescued an evening from dull snickers by talking for two hours in his musical, captivating voice, about the development of the new Ireland, in which, he says, poets are the motivating factors. He mentioned some of his Irish literary friends, among them George Moore. When AE first met Moore had been in Dublin for 10 days, and had employed six cooks in a vain effort to get an omelet done to his taste. One cook got so frightened at his anger that she called a policeman. Moore, now plussed, brought the officer into the dining-room, showed him the omelet and asked, "Is there a law to compel me to eat this omelet?"

Putting Guests in Good Humor
The manager of a string of several famous hotels hit on the plan of placing a newspaper at the door of each guest-room in the morning. The cost of papers to the hotel is trifling, but each guest is saved calling on the telephone for the paper to be sent to him, and is saved also the strain on his temper of having to give a bellboy ten cents or more for bringing him a paper worth only three cents. He feels so kindly toward the management for putting that paper at his door that he doubtless might be willing to overlook some item of inferior service if, by chance any should occur.

When this manager took charge of a great New York hotel, he tried another innovation. Instead of charging four cents for a three-cent newspaper at the hotel newsstand in the lobby, he charged only three cents. The price fixed by the publishers. Think of the ill will hotel managers in New York and elsewhere have stirred up by adding that extra penny to the price of a newspaper! The profit derived in this manner is small at best, and the resentment is stirred in many guests must cost hotels thousands upon thousands of dollars. How shortsighted then must be the average hotel man in refusing to buy good wares when he can have it for one penny! When a guest remains a week or longer at one famous hotel, he finds in his room a bouquet of flowers or a box of candy. This little present doesn't amount to much in itself but serves to make the guests feel as if he had become an old and valued friend—as if he were now one of the inner circle. When he comes to town again he has a sort of home feeling toward the place where the manager sent flowers to his room. Such courtesies cost little, but they

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

YOUR EYES PROCLAIM YOUR AGE

I am always afraid of telling you how to care for your eyes, lest in the enthusiasm of your efforts you do more harm than good. So I must preface my beauty aids with a warning! The structure of the face is made up of several layers of skin, but around the eyes the area is far more tender, with fewer and more sensitive tissues. Do you wonder then that massaging, or even a heavy finger, will injure the texture of your skin, even to the point of breaking down the elasticity, and bringing the inevitable lines and creases? Do you wonder that the sag of an eye muscle develops ugly little puffy sacs, which are most difficult to get rid of?

Remember never to use a massage around your eyes. The heaviest movement permissible is no stronger than a very moderate finger tap. Never pull the eye muscles, and that means not only caution during the period of ministering to your appearance, but at all apprehensions of her over 16 can afford to rub her eyes awake in the morning. And as for the digging, actually!—knuckles burrowing way into the eyes, pulling and distorting all the surrounding area!—well, no woman at all apprehensions of her "staying power" as far as youth and beauty are concerned, would do such a heedless, foolish, reckless thing. Have I frightened you away from heavy-handed manipulations? I certainly hope so!

The bane of all women is crow's-feet. They come from squinting, from laughing, from nervous tricks of narrowing the eyes, and from improper nourishment of the tissues. A rich, nourishing, and-wrinkle cream is the main consideration for correcting lines and crow's-feet. There are, however, adjuncts to the cream which will make your treatment doubly beneficial. A chemical stimulant which will first force increased circulation into those lazy muscles, and render the skin doubly receptive to the feeding cream, will prove most valuable.

A most complete treatment is a careful massaging to remove the dust and dirt that accumulates in the pores, the surplus to be gently wiped away with tissues, then on a pad of cotton a few drops of stimulant passed quickly over the area, and, finally, a very little nourishing cream finger-printed gently in all around the surface and retained overnight.

Do not forget to treat your lids, omitting the stimulant, however, and you must be very careful about putting in the feeding cream, most carefully.

Puffy eyes denote sagging muscles, and sagging muscles require good balsamic muscle-tighteners. The entire method of treatment for puffy eyes is as follows: First, cleansing cream. A pasteurized cleansing cream is valuable for this condition, as it is mildly astringent. Follow with a refining lotion and muscle bracer on cotton pads. After it has dried in, pat the balsam in very gently, using firm but gentle pats with the third finger of your hand. Follow with another compress of refining lotion, and at night pat in a little of the anti-wrinkle cream, to protect the area from becoming too dry under the astringent. It is not an immediate corrective, but a very certain one, and in dealing with advanced conditions of skin neglect, time is an all important factor in the success of these treatments.

MAY DAYS

It is May Day.
We are the children of long, long ago, of prehistoric and primitive times.
Food is scarce, and the struggle for existence is terrible and constant. We, being the weakest, are sacrificed. Abortion, cannibalism, differences and arguments to the elements, weed us out.
Those of us who belong to certain tribes, and are destined to live, are mutilated by holes bored in our ears, noses and lips, tattooing, and deformities of our skull and limbs. We are born on unlucky days, or if we are twins, or even if we sneeze directly after birth, we are slaughtered, for we are considered unnatural and un-canny.

are the mortar between the bricks in the solid wall of good will.
This same hotel also has its clerks instructed to send flowers to the room of any couple who are on their honeymoon. If in doubt—but an experienced hotel clerk rarely guesses wrong on such questions—and he sends the flowers anyhow. Naturally there is nothing in the whole big wide world so noteworthy to a honeymoon couple as their recent marriage. To have a hotel manager recognize the importance of the event by sending flowers convinces them that he must be an extraordinary wise and capable hotel man, and that they have come to the right place. So far as they are concerned, they trust that their children and their children's children will stop at that same hotel.

Where there are young people in the family they are usually fond of chocolate. The pudding that is made without it is often criticized. Milk puddings of various sorts are good for everyone—much better than pies and cakes—so we'll add a bit of chocolate to the rice and will hear no complaints that it is rice rather than pie or cake with "frosting."

Scald milk, add rice and salt and cook until rice is tender. Add butter, sugar, melted chocolate and vanilla and beat in the beaten egg whites and the cream, whipped. have oceans of fun. It is our festival day. We have plays, May poles and pageants.
It is fitting. May Day represents the springtime of the year, and we represent the springtime of life.

It is May Day.
We are the children of the present.

We have come into our own.
It is understood now that if we are sound physically, mentally, and spiritually, we are as rocks upon which the nations and the race are to be built, and if neglected we are as shifting sands.
It is understood that our contracts and experiences have not fitted us to reason and to act as adults, and demands are made upon us only proportionate to the special state of our development. We have sympathetic understanding. Laws are being passed to prevent of our having to labor at all.

The principles of child psychology, of discipline, of ethics and of life itself are being studied for our benefit.

It is known that to know, love and serve is the most satisfying and soul-filling of all human activities.

It is May Day. It is still our festival day; we have May poles, plays and pageants.

But May Day now means much more than the fun and happiness for one day, for on this day throughout the nation, special thought is being given on how we can best be served.
All over the country, welfare associations, such as the American Child Health association, state boards of health and education, churches, Parent-Teacher associations, American Red Cross, and men's and women's clubs, are meeting to discuss our needs for the future and to celebrate what has been done in the past year.

It is May Day. Now dedicated to us and known as National Child Health Day.

Our Kingdom is come. His will is being done on earth, as it is in heaven.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 4. — Let not the city feller fondly fancy that farm relief means nothing in his young life.

It does, two ways.
The farmer wants more money. From whose hands? The city chap supposes it'll have to come, but his'n—if anybody's.
Yet the city dweller can't let agriculture go broke. It's axiomatic that no city can stay prosperous for very long, if the country all round about it is hard up.

So it behooves us urbanites to devote some study to this plan we hear so much about, to improve the lot of our rural brethren.

The relief plan referred to is the McNary-Haugen plan.

It isn't the principal one. It's the one congress has partly passed already, and that they say President Coolidge means to veto. It'll come up again later, even if he does. It's an interesting thing, whether you believe in it or not.

The McNary-Haugen plan aims to apply the protective principle to agriculture.

This isn't as easy as it sounds. What our manufacturers and industrial workers are afraid of is foreign competition. We bar this out—by means of a high tariff on imported manufacturers—by means of tariff restrictions on cheap immigration.

Protected thus, our manufacturers and workmen are able to keep their prices up—for their goods and for their labor.
Foreign competition isn't what bothers our farmers. They're competitors among themselves. Their grief is that they over-produce here at home, and consequently can't market their stuff—because there's too much of it—at decent figures.

The nub of the McNary-Haugen plan is to have the government pool all our corps and refuse to sell any part of them to American consumers except at a satisfactory profit for the farmer—a profit in proportion to the manufacturer's profits, and labor's wages.

Of course a surplus will be left. That will have to be unloaded abroad for whatever it will bring but not here in the United States. Americans, at any rate, will have to pay more—to help the farmers out.

Anyway, that the theory. It's supposed to be the protective principle, in reverse—for agriculture's benefit.

It's funny how our statesmen line up on the scheme.

It's conceived in the purest spirit of protection—there can't be any doubt about that. Yet the White House, the ultra-protectionist President Coolidge, denounces it as "uneconomic."

It's enough to make that late free trade apostle, Thomas Jefferson, holler bloody murder in his grave. Yet, in congress, we find the Democratic bloc, historically anti-high tariff—followers of Mr. Smith giving their heartiest echo, and their votes, and promising to pass it over the president's veto, if they can.

Which it's hard to observe and not reach the conclusion that party politics is all bank—on both sides.

COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE

Some time ago I was asked what I thought about companionate marriage. There was hardly space to discuss it very fully, but I said, as explained by Judge Lindsey himself, it was at least worth considering. Now a young woman writes her views of love and marriage, and I am glad to print it.

My dear Mrs. Lee: I am, perhaps, a little past the "freshie" age, but after all the good times I have had in good company with boys and girls, I have also taken great pleasure in good substantial reading. I enjoy conversation that otherwise I could not have entered into happily. I believe that girls should be willing to wait and become acquainted with different young men, and not be so ready to fall for every fellow that smiles at them. Many, I fear, even by well meaning parents, are denied real understanding, sympathy and love in their home and, craving love, too often become infatuated with boys who are in no way suited to them as life companions. This is equally applicable to the opposite sex. I may seem to be a confirmed "old maid," but I'm not so old, and think my chance for a happy home, with husband and children, is good. I'm glad I've waited, and I believe if there were fewer marriages there would be fewer regrets. Companionate marriages can never solve the problem. I cannot see how it can do otherwise than encourage vice, only making it seem a little more respectable, hence more dangerous. Not for me, thanks.

"Single at 28."

I agree with you, in part. As I understand Judge Lindsey, the companionate marriage is not necessarily a hasty one. It merely provides a way for young people, who are in love and want to marry, to do so to legally be comrades, and to enjoy one another's society until they are convinced that they are suited to be life companions, and are financially able to support families. Don't you know of many young couples who are doing just that? Both working and living happily together to build a permanent home? Judge Lindsey believes that in the majority of cases the companionate marriage would merge into a permanent relationship. And if it did not, there would be no little children to suffer from the break. In these days of so much hectic living one has to think seriously about such things, and not condemn them without thought, even though one may not agree with the solution offered.

Maple cream sauce may be served with almost any kind of pudding, or if piled on squares of sponge cake, it makes an excellent dessert. Beat one cup of heavy cream until stiff. ## Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A DAY GAINED

For some time, Mr. Hummingbird had not said a word. He appeared to be gazing at something on an opposite twig, but the boy could not make out what it was. Now Mrs. Hummingbird nudged Peter's elbow.

"Husband is watching for spiders," whispered she. "I believe he has his eye on one now and if he has, nothing can save it."
Sure enough, on the other twig there was stretched a dainty web hung with dew drops that glistened in the bright rays of the sun. In the center of the web was a small spider and he was fast asleep.

Peter would have liked to warn the spider of his danger but he didn't know just how to go about it. Before he had time to think of a way Hummingbird was hovering over the web, and in the twinkling of an eye, had snapped up the spider and made off with it. So quick and clever had Hummingbird been that he hadn't made a tiny break in the fine web. Not even a dew drop had been shaken from its place. Peter, much as he hated to have the spider come to such a sad end, marvelled at the little bird's skill.

Mother Hummingbird shook her head. "A steady diet of just one thing would be bad for his digestion. We love honey wine better than anything else, but a bit of fresh meat once in a while keeps us in good condition. We eat an occasional fly, but spiders have the best flavor. Good gracious! Have I made a mistake and set on the nest for ten days instead of nine? Listen, husband. Don't you hear a scratching? I do believe that the eggs are going to hatch."

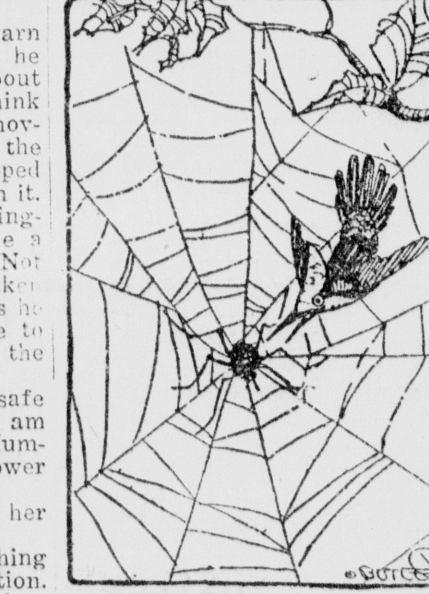

Mr. and Mrs. Hummingbird became much excited. First one and then the other cocked their head to listen, hopped about on the branch and rose into the air, hovering over the nest in great anxiety.

Peter knelt down and placed his ear close to the web. He heard a faint scratching within the shells and he wasn't certain

whether or not he heard a weak "cheep, cheep."

Suddenly Mrs. Hummingbird spoke and her voice sounded quite sharp.

"Yes, the eggs are hatching, as sure as I am alive. On dear, oh dear, I am all of a twitter. If you can't hear, I shall have to ask you to leave. Two-Legs. At a time like this there must be no strangers about. If the babies caught sight of you suddenly, they might start their growth. I have even known of a thunder shower stopping birdlings trying to break out."

"Now, wife, that is too bad!" Mr. Hummingbird spoke reprovingly. "I don't think it would do any harm for the boy to stay. He can keep quiet and out of sight."
But Peter saw that the little mother was beside herself with anxiety. He didn't wish to add to her troubles. Besides he felt sure that the second a wee bird popped from the shell Mr. Hummingbird himself would forget all about him. He would only be in the way. He stood down from the branch he softly crooned.
Next—"Flying Gold."

CEDARVILLE BEATS ANTIOCH BASEBALL NINE WEDNESDAY

Cedarville College's baseball team won its first game in four starts this season, through the medium of a victory in the eighth inning which enabled the "Yellow Jackets" to come from behind and defeat Antioch College 15 to 7 on the Yellow Springs diamond Wednesday afternoon.

Cedarville out-hit Antioch fourteen blows to twelve while Nagley pitched a good game and was accompanied by a strong support.

Errors predominated in the play of both teams, Antioch committing eight misplays while Coach Borst's team was credited with six, at least four of which might easily have gone for hits as the chances were more or less difficult.

The victory was all the sweeter for Cedarville since it marked the first time the college had defeated Antioch in baseball at Yellow Springs since 1898. Cedarville has emerged victorious over its rival in all three branches of athletic rivalry between the schools the past seasons, having also recorded two victories in both football and basketball.

In Wednesday's diamond tilt, Cedarville went to bat in the eighth, trailing 7 to 3.

Nagley opened the stanza with a double. C. Lyon scored for the first out, but Boyer fanned the pitcher with a two-base hit. Turner walked. Armstrong grounded to short and was thrown out at first, both moments advancing a base.

S. Lyon beat out a slow roller. Boyer scoring. Adair, pinch hitting for Morton, singled over second, counting Turner. Patter followed with a single, placing S. Lyon. Adair came across on a passed ball by Toomire, Antioch catcher.

Rutan was safe on an error and Nagley, up for the second time in the inning, walked, filling the bases. C. Lyon, who had fanned his first time at bat in the frame, redeemed himself by crashing out a resounding triple, clearing the bases. Boyer reached first on an error by the third baseman, C. Lyon scoring.

Turner singled to center and Boyer scored all the way from first when the center fielder pegged wildly to the plate. Armstrong ended the agony by grounding to the short stop for the third demise.

The warm weather seemed to help Nagley, who hurled with all his former skill. McLean, handicapped by a sore leg, also did remarkably well in the box for Antioch. He pitched the entire game. In the fifth inning, he connected for the longest hit of the day, a liner over the center fielder's head that would ordinarily have gone for a home run. Unable to run fast, McLean was held to second base. Cedarville plays Wilberforce University at Cedarville Saturday afternoon.

Score by innings:
Cedarville 6 11 0 0 1 10 2—15 14 6
Antioch . . . 0 0 0 13 3 0 2—7 12 8

TROY WILL FURNISH STIFF OPPOSITION FOR RESERVES HERE

The Troy baseball team, which appears at Washington Park Sunday afternoon for a game with the Xenia Reserves, has the reputation of being the fastest club in the Miami Valley.

Manager Jesse Chambliss has learned that it will be the Troy Pirates instead of the Troy Panthers that will meet the local nine.

The Troy outfit should provide a real argument if records of previous year mean anything. The team has played all home games for the last two seasons, but due to the fact the club's grounds are being reconditioned this spring, the team found the Sunday day game.

Reserves found it necessary to make an emergency booking of a team for Sunday because Richmond, Ind., cancelled.

Last season the Pirates played in the Municipal League in Troy and won the championship.

The team has been kept intact for three years.

Troy will probably line up with LeBlonde at first base; Eyer, second base; V. Hales, shortstop; Wesco, third base; Collie, catcher; and J. Hales, Counts and Fair in the outfield.

Allen is expected to draw the pitching assignment for Troy. Reserves will star either Schriep or McMichael. The former turned in a fine exhibition last Sunday.

James E. Hughes was re-elected president of the Xenia Quoit Club for the 1928 season at the club's re-organization meeting Thursday.

Arch Jeffries was elected secretary-treasurer and Clarence Patterson was selected as the new field captain to the match team.

With organization finally completed, efforts are expected to be made to stimulate interest in quoit pitching here during the coming season.

Xenia's opening match in the Miami Valley Quoit League is against Springfield at Springfield Monday night at 8 o'clock. Six players will make the trip. Xenia will play match games every Monday night.

M'GRAW SIGNS NEW TWO-YEAR CONTRACT

CINCINNATI, O., May 4.—The decision of John J. McGraw to remain as manager of the New York Giants for two more years was regarded today as a refutation of rumors that the little Napoleon of the diamond was at loggerheads with Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club. Judge Francis X. McQuade, deposited treasurer of the Giants, had intimated that the relations existing between McGraw and Stoneham were none too cordial.

McGraw, now leading the Giants for the twenty-sixth season, refused to sign a five-year contract. His present contract expires at the end of this season.

"I'm fifty-five and I don't know how I will feel in five years," he said. "Maybe by that time the club will have had enough of me."

It is rumored that McGraw's latest contract calls for more than $50,000 a year, a bonus and part of the club's profits.

CEDARVILLE BEATS ANTIOCH BASEBALL NINE WEDNESDAY

Cedarville College's baseball team won its first game in four starts this season, through the medium of a ten-run rally in the eighth inning which enabled the "Yellow Jackets" to come from behind and defeat Antioch College 15 to 7 on the Yellow Springs diamond Wednesday afternoon.

Cedarville outbatted Antioch, ten blows to twelve while Nagley pitched a good game and was accorded fair play.

Errors predominated in the play of both teams, Antioch committing eight misplays while Coach Borst's team was credited with six, at least four of which might easily have gone for hits as the chances were more or less difficult.

The victory was all the sweeter for Cedarville since it marked the first time the college had defeated Antioch in baseball at Yellow Springs since 1898. Cedarville has emerged victorious over its rival in all three branches of athletic rivalry between the two schools the past seasons, having also recorded two victories in both football and basketball.

In Wednesday's diamond tilt, Cedarville went to bat in the eighth, trailing 7 to 3.

Nagley opened the stanza with a double. C. Lyon fanned for the first out, but Boyer scored the pitcher with a two-base hit. Turner walked.

Armstrong grounded to short and was thrown out at first, but runners advancing a base.

S. Lyon beat out a slow roller. Boyer scoring. Adair, pinch hitting for Morton, singled over second, counting Turner. Tanner followed with a single, plating S. Lyon.

Adair came across on a passed ball by Toomire, Antioch catcher.

Rutan was safe on an error and Nagley, up for the second time in the inning, walked, filling the bases. C. Lyon, who had fanned his first time at bat in the frame, redeemed himself by crashing out a resounding triple, clearing the bases. Boyer reached first on an error by the third baseman, C. Lyon.

Turner singled to center and Boyer scored all the way from first when the center fielder pegged wildly to the plate. Armstrong ended the agony by grounding to the short stop for the third demise.

The warm help Nagley, who hurled with all his former skill, McLean, handily, remarkably well in the box for Antioch. He pitched the entire game.

In the fifth inning, he connected for the longest hit of the day, a liner over the center fielder's head that would ordinarily have gone for a home run. Unable to run fast, McLean was held to second base.

Cedarville plays Wilberforce University at Cedarville Saturday afternoon.

Score by innings:
Cedarville 011 000 110 2-15 14 6
Antioch 000 133 0 0-2-7 12 8

TROY WILL FURNISH STIFF OPPOSITION FOR RESERVES HERE

The Troy baseball team, which appears at Washington Park Sunday afternoon for a game with the Xenia Reserves, has the reputation of being the fastest club in the Miami Valley.

Manager Jesse Chambliss has learned that it will be the Troy Pirates instead of the Troy Panthers that will meet the local nine.

The Trojan outfit should provide a real argument if records of previous year mean anything. The team has played all home games for the last two seasons, but due to the fact the club's grounds are being reconducted this spring, the team found the Sunday date in this city acceptable. This will probably be Troy's first and last road game.

Reserves found it necessary to make an emergency booking of a team for Sunday because Richmond, Ind., cancelled.

Last season the Pirates played in the Municipal League in Troy and won the championship.

The team has been kept intact for three years.

Troy will probably line up with LeBlonde at first base; Eyer, second base; V. Hales, shortstop; Wesco, third base; Collie, catcher; and J. Hales, Counts and Fair in the outfield.

Allen is expected to draw the pitching assignment for Troy. Reserves will star either Schlipf or McMichael. The former turned in a fine exhibition last Sunday.

J. E. HUGHES HEADS XENIA QUIT CLUB

James E. Hughes was re-elected president of the Xenia Quoit Club for the 1928 season at the club's re-organization meeting Thursday.

Arch Jeffries was elected secretary and Clarence Patterson was selected as the new field captain for the match team.

With organization finally completed, efforts are expected to be made to stimulate interest in quoit pitching here during the coming season.

Xenia's opening match in the Miami Valley Quoit League is against Springfield at Springfield Monday night at 8 o'clock. Six players will make the trip. Xenia will play match games every Monday night.

MCGRAW SIGNS NEW TWO-YEAR CONTRACT

CINCINNATI, O., May 4.—The decision of John J. McGraw to remain as manager of the New York Giants for two more years was regarded today as a refutation of rumors that the little Napoleon of the diamond was at loggerheads with Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club. Judge Francis X. McQuade, deposed treasurer of the Giants, had intimated that the relations existing between McGraw and Stoneham were none too cordial.

McQuade, now leading the Giants for the twenty-sixth season, refused to sign a five-year contract. His present contract expires at the end of this season.

"I'm fifty-five and I don't know how I will feel in five years," he said. "Maybe by that time the club will have had enough of me."

It is rumored that McGraw's latest contract calls for more than $50,000 a year, a bonus and part of the club's profits.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

With the crucifixion week but a few days ahead and while on the way to Jerusalem, Jesus closed his ministry in Perea with the third forecast of his fate in the capital and the second rebuke of ambition in the apostolic circle.

V. 35. "And there came near unto him, James and John, the sons of Zebedee, saying unto him, 'Teacher, we would that thou shouldst do for us whatsoever we will ask of thee.' Christ was addressed as a king having power of conferring favors. The desire of ministerial promotion was evident then as now.

V. 36. "And he said unto them, what would ye that I should do for thee?" Jesus proceeds to uncover the hidden secrets which when exposed will serve as a basis of judgment.

V. 37. "And they said unto him, grant unto us that we sit, one on the right hand, and one on the left hand, in glory." Here is a wrong prayer because it is absolutely selfish; they wanted to be honored with a crown and a position above all others.

V. 38. "But Jesus said unto them, ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink the cup that I drink? Or to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?" Service implies, first, correct information and proper evaluation of true living which may call for abject suffering such as was Christ's on the cross.

V. 39. "And they said unto him, we are able. And Jesus said unto them, the cup that I drink, ye shall drink; and with the baptism that I am baptized with, shall ye be baptized." The answer given by the disciples was the only answer they could give but it carried more meaning than they were aware of for they each suffered martyrdom.

V. 40. "But to sit on my right hand or on my left is not mine to give; but it is for them for whom it is prepared." Salvation is not purchased but freely given to those who have been duly prepared by regeneration and sanctification.

V. 41. "And when the ten heard it, they began to be moved with indignation concerning James and John." All the disciples were human else there would have been pity instead of criticism; few can stand the test of unfair competition.

Vs. 42, 43. "And Jesus called them to him, and saith unto them, ye know that they who accounted to rule over the Gentiles lord it over them. But it shall not be so among you; but whosoever would become great among you, shall be your minister." Christianity is diametrically opposed to arbitrary authority. Christ does not deprecate the desire for greatness but points the way—that of humble service.

Vs. 44, 45. "And whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all." Of these teachings Christ is the model; the real history of mankind portrays life of men called great because of noble deeds rendered.

Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, internationally known as author, lecturer and preacher, who for the past eight years has been pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, Detroit, has resigned, and will become pastor of the American church in Montreal, Canada. He will spend the summer in Europe and assume his duties in September.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. When is it right and when is it wrong to seek positions of service?

2. How should one rightfully attain positions of power and trust?

3. How can we keep from making wrong prayers?

4. What is the limiting condition of every true and sincere prayer?

5. Why should the other disciples find fault with the two who sought special favor?

6. What is the crown "that fadeth not away?"

7. Give illustrations of those who became great through service.

Clericus says, "How glow we are to see that worldly ambitions, competition and self-assertion are utterly alien to the social order of brotherhood and love in Christ. When we recognize our stewardship, our ambition will be to serve. The only competition among true stewards is a competition in good works propelled by the Christian motive."

Lesson Prayer:—"O Lord, teach us to pray aright; instill within us a true spirit and motive of service; lead us to do all things in thy name."

BOOK REVIEW
"Gentlemen—The King," Oxenham, The Pilgrim's Press, 75 cents is an inspiring interpretation of the meaning of the life of Christ written in verse of exceptional dignity. "King Arthur and the Holy Grail," Jaffray, Putnam's Sons, N. Y., is an examination of the early literature pertaining to the legends of King Arthur and the Holy Grail.

I may save a million pounds
And store it in the bank,
Or entertain a million men
With humor wild and rank;
And set the world agaping
With the fodder bills I've paid,
But I'll like a better credit
When the final game is played.
Oh, I'd like to count my assets
A dozen million smiles,
A million burdens lifted
From ten thousand million miles,
And, when at last, I come to meet
My manhood face to face
I'd like to know that I had made
The world a better place.
To know I've faced the battle,
And bravely manned the guns,
Had kept my betting average high
And helped to score the runs;
That when I cross the borderline
And step upon the star,
I'll cast a proud look back to earth,
And know I once was there.

(Send church and Sunday school problems in question form to the church editor—question with answer will appear in later issue.)

1. How may inferior teachers in the Sunday school be displaced by more competent ones? Every Sunday school ought to have a policy that will make possible a change of teachers at certain periods such as it does in the public schools. It is a good policy to arrange for teachers for one year at a time only. The matter of appointing the teachers ought to be in the hands of a competent committee. Every Sunday school ought to maintain a teacher training class.

and all young teachers ought to be requested to take these courses; it might be that the inefficient teachers might become competent by provided training courses.

2. What should a minister do whose convictions differ from that of his church's official creed? Orthodoxy would say resign; the more liberal view is that differences of convictions might only be a difference of opinion and to be able to preach the great outstanding truths one may well sacrifice his own opinions on non-essentials.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

With the crucifixion week but a few days ahead and while on the way to Jerusalem, Jesus closed his ministry in Perea with the third forecast of his fate in the capital and the second rebuke of ambition in the apostolic circle.

V. 35. "And there came near unto him, James and John, the sons of Zebedee saying unto him, 'Teach us, we would that thou shouldst do for us whatsoever we will ask of thee.' Christ was addressed as a king having power of conferring favors. The desire of ministerial promotion was evident then as now.

V. 36. "And he said unto them, what would ye that I should do for thee?" Jesus proceeds to uncover the hidden secrets which when exposed will serve as a basis of judgment.

V. 37. "And they said unto him, grant unto us that we sit, one on the right hand, and one on the left hand, in glory." Here is a wrong prayer because it is absolutely selfish; they wanted to be honored with a crown and a position above all others.

V. 38. "But Jesus said unto them, ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink the cup that I drink? Or to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?" Service implies, first, correct information and proper evaluation of true living which may call for abject suffering such as was Christ's on the cross.

V. 39. "And they said unto him, we are able. And Jesus said unto them, the cup that I drink ye shall drink; and with the baptism that I am baptized withal shall ye be baptized." The answer given by the disciples was the only answer they could give but it carried more meaning than they were aware of for they each suffered martyrdom.

V. 40. "But to sit on my right hand or on my left is not mine to give; but it is for them for whom it is prepared." Salvation is not purchased but freely given to those who have been duly prepared by regeneration and sanctification.

V. 41. "And when the ten heard it, they began to be moved with indignation concerning James and John." All the disciples were human else there would have been pity instead of criticism; few can stand the test of unfair competition.

V. 42, 43. "And Jesus called them to him, and saith unto them, ye know that they who accounted to rule over the Gentiles lord it over them. But it shall not be so among you; but whosoever would become great among you shall be minister."

Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, internationally known as author, lecturer and preacher, who for the past eight years has been pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, Detroit, has resigned, and will become pastor of the American church in Montreal, Canada. He will spend the summer in Europe and assume his duties in September.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. When is it right and when is it wrong to seek positions of service?

2. How should one rightfully attain positions of power and trust?

3. How can we keep from making wrong prayers?

4. What is the limiting condition of every true and sincere prayer?

5. Why should the other disciples find fault with the two who sought special favor?

6. What is the crown "that fadeth not away?"

7. Give illustrations of those who became great through service.

Clericus says, "How glow we are to see that worldly ambitions, competition and self-assertion are utterly alien to the social order of brotherhood and love in Christ. When we recognize our stewardship, our ambition will be to serve. The only competition among true stewards is a competition in good works propelled by the Christian motive."

Lesson Prayer: "O Lord, teach us to pray aright; instill within us a true spirit and motive of service; lead us to do all things in thy name."

BOOK REVIEW
"Gentlemen—The King," Oxenham, The Pilgrim's Press, 75 cents is an inspiring interpretation of the meaning of the life of Christ written in verse of exceptional dignity.

"King Arthur and the Holy Grail," Jaffray, Putnam's Sons, N. Y., is an examination of the early literature pertaining to the legends of King Arthur and the Holy Grail.

Home Education
The Big Game

I may save a million pounds. And store it in the bank. Or entertain a million men. With humor wild and rank; And get the world agape. With the foppery bills I've paid. But I'll like a better credit. When the final game is played. Oh, I'd like to count my assets. A dozen million smiles. A million burdens lifted. O'er ten thousand million miles. And when at last, I come to meet My manhood face to face I'd like to know that I had made The world a better place. To know I've faced the battle. And bravely manned the guns. Had kept my battling average high. And helped to score the runs; That when I cross the borderline And step upon the star, I'll cast a proud look back to earth. And know I once was there. —Alex C. Noe, Homiletic Review.

Church Forum
(Send church and Sunday school problems in question form to the church editor—question with answer will appear in later issue).

1. How may inferior teachers in the Sunday school be displaced by more competent ones? Every Sunday school ought to have a policy that will make possible a change of teachers at certain periods such as is done in the public schools. It is a good policy to arrange for teachers for one year at a time only. The matter of appointing the teachers ought to be in the hands of a competent committee. Every Sunday school ought to maintain a teacher training class.

EAVEY CO. ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR EXPANDING BUILDING HERE

Wholesale Grocery Concern Will Build Third Story On Xenia Plant—Richmond, Ind., Branch Will Also Occupy New Building Soon.

Plans for enlargement of the plant of The Eavey Co., wholesale grocers, at Detroit and Third Sts., were disclosed Friday with announcement that a third story will be added to the present building. Contract for the construction work has been awarded to McCurran Brothers, general contracting firm, this city.

The construction will be of brick and reinforced concrete and the architecture is to conform with the general line of the present building. Work is scheduled to begin immediately.

Completion of the addition, which will be used entirely as a warehouse, will make available approximately 15,000 additional square feet of room for the purpose of storing stock and supplies.

Extra grocery stock had formerly been stored in a warehouse on Washington St., which was damaged by a recent fire.

The present building of the firm was designed at the time it was built, in such a manner that a third story could be added at a future date if more room became necessary.

The forecast of the possible erection of a new three-story addition utilizing 120 feet of unused space in the rear of the present building, was also made Friday by Walter R. Harner, secretary-treasurer of the company.

This project is at present in the tentative stage and will probably not materialize for another year or more, Mr. Harner declared. The proposed addition would contain a refrigeration plant for storing fruits and other perishable commodities, he said.

Mr. Harner also announces that a branch plant of the local concern, located at Richmond, Ind., will be moved to a new and better site in that city about July 1.

The plant where it is now located, is hemmed in by railroads and is no longer considered a desirable site. It will be moved to a four-story building, which formerly housed the Davis auto plant, situated east of the Pennsylvania Railroad station in that city.

The building provides about 60,000 feet of floor space, has three elevators, is nearer the business section of the city and is thought to be a more suitable location. The interior of the structure is now being remodelled.

WATER WITH A KICK
WASHINGTON, May 4.—Edris Kerns, 70, wanted a drink—only a drink of water, which is certainly not worth walking very far to get.

A handy fire-plum at 34th M Streets seemed to provide the answer. Anyway, Kerns put his head down in the appropriate position and drank the stream.

They took nine stitches in Kern's head at Georgetown Hospital a few minutes later. The force of the stream sent him further than he would have had to walk to get a drink.

Poems that Live

THE LASS OF RICHMOND HILL

ON Richmond Hill there lives a lass

More bright than May-day morn,

Whose charms all other maids surpass,

A rose without a thorn.

This lass so neat, with smiles so sweet,

Has won my right good-will;

I'd crown her to call her mine,

Sweet lass of Richmond Hill.

Ye zephyrs gay, that fan the air,

And wander through the grove,

O, whisper to my charming fair,

I die for her I love.

How happy will the shepherd be

Who calls this nymph his own!

A, may her choice be fixed on me!

Mine's fixed on her alone.

BARN FIRE RUINS TELEPHONE SERVICE; AUTOS ARE DAMAGED

The entire western part of the city was without telephone service for about twenty-four hours after flames, which partly destroyed a barn owned by Mrs. J. P. Fletcher, grocer, at the rear of the residence of J. E. Daly, 236 W. Second St., also melted a cable serving nearly 600 telephone users west of Gallo-way St., and in the rural part of Greene County at 3 p. m. Thursday.

Toll lines connecting Xenia with Cincinnati, Lebanon, Dayton and the Spring Valley and Bellbrook exchanges, were also burned, cutting off this service.

Service over toll lines was restored by 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon and local service was expected to be available early Friday afternoon.

According to H. W. Cleaver, Xenia manager of The Ohio Bell Telephone Co., a piece of cable was obtained from Springfield several hours later. Workmen labored all night getting the cable in position to be spliced. The cable, carrying 600 wires, had to be spliced at two ends.

Efficient work on the part of firemen prevented a much larger blaze in the vicinity.

The barn was a large two-story frame structure. The roof burned entirely off, causing damage estimated at $100.

The top was also burned from a touring car owned by Dominic Pescavento, 13 S. West St., while a delivery truck belonging to Mrs. J. P. Fletcher was also damaged. The autos were stored in the barn.

Firemen were kept busy extinguishing roof fires in the vicinity, due to flying sparks. Garages owned by D. E. Turner, 224 W. Second St., and Mrs. William Bath, 222 W. Second St., were scorched. The carpentry shop of J. B. Michaels, 225 W. Main St., and residences of Allen N. McClain, 229 W. Main St., and Frank Hustmyer, 211 W. Main St., also caught fire from sparks, but the flames were put out with slight loss.

The fire is believed to have been caused by rubbish burning in an alley.

meeting, will harp on the weather, even though there be nothing at all to say on the subject. Then they will get to talking about their health, and they will go into the subject in an absolutely pathological manner, for lack of something else to talk about.

Really, I think Mr. Bennett may have overdrawn the situation. But there is a good deal of talk made about the weather, for lack of something else to talk about. And I believe that our children will be more comfortable in their world, when they grow older, if we let them talk copiously now, so that they may talk unreservedly when they are adults. When I was a child there were always six or eight of us youngsters in the house, ranging from eighteen years old down. If we began expressing opinions or exchanging repartee, my father, who had a tremendous sailor's voice, would sing out "Silence" as though issuing an order to a whole ship's crew in a gale.

I believe that this suppression of talk in childhood is responsible for much of the dull and spiritless conversation we hear among adults to-day. The younger children of this generation are growing up in a less restrained atmosphere, at least in the towns, and I believe they will be better conversationalists when they grow up than their fathers and mothers have been.

The World and Ali

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

TALK ABOUT TALK

There used to be a widespread belief among the elders that children should keep still. I do not know where the notion originated, nor do I know whether it was common among all nationalities. I can hardly imagine French children being shushed about the house during the first fifteen or twenty years of their lives.

But I've met this custom of keeping children silent among down-east Yankees, Irish and Scandinavians. I'm sure it used to be common among almost all Americans and British.

When I was a child there were always six or eight of us youngsters in the house, ranging from eighteen years old down. If we began expressing opinions or exchanging repartee, my father, who had a tremendous sailor's voice, would sing out "Silence" as though issuing an order to a whole ship's crew in a gale.

When I was a child there were always six or eight of us youngsters in the house, ranging from eighteen years old down. If we began expressing opinions or exchanging repartee, my father, who had a tremendous sailor's voice, would sing out "Silence" as though issuing an order to a whole ship's crew in a gale.

I believe that this suppression of talk in childhood is responsible for much of the dull and spiritless conversation we hear among adults to-day. The younger children of this generation are growing up in a less restrained atmosphere, at least in the towns, and I believe they will be better conversationalists when they grow up than their fathers and mothers have been.

Arnold Bennett, in a charming book called "The Savour of Life," complains bitterly that Englishmen talk to one another about the weather, golf, radio, health, and politics, but about nothing else. He describes how two Englishmen, meeting, will harp on the weather, even though there be nothing at all to say on the subject. Then they will get to talking about their health, and they will go into the subject in an absolutely pathological manner, for lack of something else to talk about.

Really, I think Mr. Bennett may have overdrawn the situation. But there is a good deal of talk made about the weather, for lack of something else to talk about. And I believe that our children will be more comfortable in their world, when they grow older, if we let them talk copiously now, so that they may talk unreservedly when they are adults. Good conversation can make a world interesting. Dull conversation can spoil the best world. Omnipotence can design.

Farm Notes

1. ESTIMATE APPETITE "How much?" is one of the important questions about the home vegetable garden. How to avoid a surplus of some vegetables and a scarcity of others, is a problem which calls for a knowledge of the size, tastes and preferences of the family as well as of the productivity of the vegetables.

1. An average recommendation of the amount of vegetables to be planted for a family of five persons has been worked out in row-feet by the home demonstration specialists of the Ohio State University. For a family of this size, the specialists, there should be planted 300 feet of potatoes, with the hills ten to twelve inches apart, and with ten pounds of seed used for each 100 feet of row. Of onions, 100 feet should be enough and a pint of sets should be used. Another 100 feet should go into spinach, with the plants three to four inches apart. An ounce of spinach seed will be enough for 100 row-feet.

1. Fifty row-feet of cabbage, with the plants set twelve to fifteen inches apart, will supply the family. An equal footage of radishes, one inch apart in the rows, will call for only one ounce of seed. Fifty row-feet of Grand Rapids lettuce with the plants only four to six inches apart, may be obtained with one-fourth of an ounce of lettuce seed.

1. One hundred row-feet of green beans will not be too many. Three inches apart in the rows, and half a pint of seed will be required. The average family will consume the tomatoes from 100 feet of early vines and 300 feet of late vines, the plants being set thirty-six to forty inches apart.

1. The second and third prisoners to be sentenced to the Cincinnati Workhouse from Greene County under an agreement recently made by County Commissioners, were removed to that institution Friday in the custody of Deputy Sheriff George Sugden.

1. They are: George Ringer, Chillicothe, O., formerly of Xenia, father of fourteen children, fined $10 and costs and sentenced to six months in the workhouse on a non-support charge; and Albert Ward, this city, ordered committed to the institution to serve out a fine of $200 and costs imposed on a conviction for selling liquor.

1. Various committees were appointed, which were in session after the general meeting and made good progress with the arrangements. A large representation of the organizations attended the meeting. Mr. Rickles in chairman of the American Legion memorial committee and a past commander of Foody Post. The Legion is assuming the leadership in Memorial Day plans this year for the first time.

1. WM. RICKLES HEADS MEMORIAL DAY PLANS

1. William Rickles was appointed general chairman of the Memorial Day arrangements, at the meeting of all patriotic organizations of the city, in G. A. R. Hall, Thursday evening, Mrs. Clark Poland, was elected secretary.

1. "I can't understand, Emily, why there should be any scandal. I wish David were here now. I would tell him all that you have said, and I'm sure, when I did, he would see my position and would understand that it was a lot of silly talk among silly girls."

1. "When do you expect him to return?" asked Emily, who had been very anxious to know if Lynda had heard from David.

1. "I haven't the least idea," she answered, falling into the trap. "I had a very queer letter from him when he first went away. He seemed to think I would lose my head. I have not heard from him since. I could not answer that letter, because he did not give me any address. Perhaps he thinks he did, and that I am angry with him."

1. "Then you don't expect him for the party?"

1. "No, Emily, I'm sure he will not be here then, for he is not as keen about parties as I am."

1. "Let me see the dress you are going to wear, Lynda."

1. "I'm afraid, Emily, that you will think it very plain," Lynda replied, as she spread the simple white georgette out on the chair. "After your lovely gown, I will feel quite like the shrinking white violet that I am."

1. "I don't know, but I'll try."

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother deserted them, and that all women have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man. David is away on a trip.

Lynda's father, too, deserts her, and Claire Stanhope comes to live with her. Claire tells of innocent love for Fred Blaque, a married man. Lynda comes home one day to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.

June Challer, who has annexed money, invites Lynda and Claire and Emily Andrews to a big party. It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthused. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting that he come home for the party, so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl."

ESTIMATE APPETITE

"How much?" is one of the important questions about the home vegetable garden. How to avoid a surplus of some vegetables and a scarcity of others, is a problem which calls for a knowledge of the size, tastes and preferences of the family as well as of the productivity of the vegetables.

An average recommendation of the amount of vegetables to be planted for a family of five persons has been worked out in row-feet by the home demonstration specialists of the Ohio State University. For a family of this size, say the specialists, there should be planted 300 feet of potatoes, with the hills ten to twelve inches apart, and with ten pounds of seed used for each 100 feet of row. Of onions, 100 feet should be enough and a pint of sets should be used.

Another 100 feet should go into spinach, with the plants three to four inches apart. An ounce of spinach seed will be enough for 100 row-feet.

Fifty row-feet of cabbage, with the plants set twelve to fifteen inches apart, will supply the family. An equal footage of radishes, one inch apart in the rows, will last for only one ounce of seed.
Fifty row-feet of Grand Rapids lettuce with the plants only four to six inches apart, may be obtained with one-fourth of an ounce of lettuce seed.

One hundred row-feet of green beans will not be too many. They should be planted about three inches apart in the rows, and half a pint of seed will be required.
The average family will consume the tomatoes from 100 feet of early and 300 feet of late vines, the plants being set thirty-six to forty inches apart.

PRISONERS TAKEN TO WORKHOUSE

The second and third prisoners to be sentenced to the Cincinnati Workhouse from Greene County under an agreement recently made by County Commissioners, were removed to that institution Friday in the custody of Deputy Sheriff
George Sugden.

They are: George Ringer, Chillicothe, O., formerly of Xenia, father of fourteen children, fined $10 and sentenced to six months in the workhouse on a non-support charge; and Albert Ward, this city, ordered committed to the institution to serve out a fine of $200 and costs imposed on a conviction for selling liquor.

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:
Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother deserted them, and that all women have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man.
David is wiser on a trip.

Lynda's father, too, deserts her,
and Claire Stanhope comes to live with her. Claire tells of innocent love for Fred Blaque, a married man. Lynda comes home one day to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.

June Challer, who has annexed money, invites Lynda and Claire and Emily Andrews to a big party.
It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthralled. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting that he come home for the party, so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl!"

Ralph meets with an accident,
Lynda goes to his home, where he is enthralled by her kindly innocence, and next day he tells her he loves her, and that he'll be at the party if he must go in an ambulance. Emily invites herself to dinner with Lynda.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXXVIII
THE OFFICE GOSSIPS

"Where did you learn to cook, old dear?" Emily asked, as she cut into a broiled chop that Lynda had prepared for them.

"You forget, Emily, I've kept house for my father ever since I was ten years old, and really helped him with it before that."

"Aren't you glad you are going to pass it up now? What do you mean, pass it up, Emily?"

"Why, Lyn, don't you know that Armi has fallen for you the quickest and hardest, that ever a man did since the fall of Adam? Everybody else knows it but you."

"What has that got to do with passing up my home? Claire and I are just settling down to enjoy this place, where I have been so unhappy all these years. I don't think
I would trade it for anything Mr.
Armitage could give me, if that's what you mean by passing it up."

"Don't be a sill, Lyn. That 'keep your gold' stuff went out before the movies came in. You have struck a gold mine that few girls ever find, although they are always prospering. Now all you have to do is to dig, dig, dig. Pay dirt is right in sight. Don't pick up a few nuggets and let the real thing get away from you, all the rest of your life.
Every girl in the office, including little Emily, is pale green with envy. If you take my advice, you will dig right now while the digging is good, for even you must have learned by this time that Armi is somewhat fickle."

"I don't know what you mean by digging. Is it to play Ralph Armitage for everything that I can get out of him?"

"It seems to me that the office knows more about his feeling for me than I do myself. Of course, I can't help their thoughts and opinions, but I do wish you would tell every one who gossips to you about me, that I wish she would mind her own business and let me attend to my own affairs, which I can do without any help from anyone."

Emily Andrews smiled maliciously at Lynda's answer, when she heard the gossip that was going about the office.

"I don't blame you at all for being angry," she said, "for if this gossip should get to David Kenmore, it would surely make trouble for you. I know that you, on your first job, would not want the least breath of scandal to blow your way."

"I can't understand, Emily, why there should be any scandal. I wish David were here now. I would tell him all that you have said, and I'm sure, when I did, he would see my position and would understand that I was a lot of silly talk among silly girls

WARMER WEATHER HELPS DISPEL INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC IN COUNTY

After raging through the county the past eight weeks, the epidemic of grip and influenza is believed to be now on the wane, in the opinion of local physicians.

One county doctor declared that he had attended 1,400 cases of a mild form of "flu" during the past ten weeks. Whole families have been stricken at one time, making the number of cases greater and the problem of physicians in caring for the sick more difficult.

There have been as many cases of influenza as in 1918, when an epidemic swept the country, but it is in a much milder form, one doctor said. There have been no fatalities from the disease reported in this county, but attacks often leave the victim with serious complications.

An epidemic of measles in Greene County is expected by doctors, with the report of a number of cases in scattered communities, the last few days.

SEAGRAVE TRUCK IS TESTED BY FIREMEN HERE ON THURSDAY

City officials expressed satisfaction with the unofficial test following the demonstration here Thursday of a fire truck with an auxiliary centrifugal pump, manufactured by The Seagrave Corp., Columbus, O.

The apparatus is designed for a guaranteed capacity of 750 gallons of water per minute.

The first test was made at the lagoon in Shawnee Park, drafting water from the pond. The testing gauge showed a seventeen-inch vacuum, on the suction side of the pump, which is equal to about a twenty-foot lift.

Since the suction strainer was partly buried in the mud, the test was conducted under somewhat unusual circumstances.

On the discharge side, using two fifty-foot hose lines, one attached to a one-inch nozzle and the second connected with an inch and one-eighth nozzle, the pump showed 120 pounds pressure. After figuring off loss by friction and deducting this, the one-inch nozzle showed 112 pounds pressure, or a volume of 312 gallons per minute, and the one and one-eighth inch nozzle, 106 pounds pressure, or 392 gallons per minute, a total volume of 704 gallons under the existing conditions.

This was considered a most satisfactory demonstration.

The second test was conducted at a six-inch fire hydrant, pumping from a six-inch water main at the end of Corwin Ave.

With water pressure of seventy pounds at the hydrant, two fifty-foot hose lines were used, both nozzles having one and three-eighth inch openings.

The pump showed ninety-eight pounds pressure. After discounting a certain amount of friction at the discharge nozzles, each nozzle showed eighty-eight pounds pressure. In terms of volume, each line produced 519 gallons per minute, throwing a total of 1,038 gallons per minute. This was far over the guaranteed capacity.

The demonstration was also witnessed by city officials of Miamiburg, O., including the mayor, members of the council and the service director. Miamiburg has under consideration the purchase of two pumps to make its fire department more efficient as a result of a recent disastrous fire.

CARRY CHILD TEN MILES TO DOCTOR

STANLEY, Va., May 4.—Resourcefulness is a part of life in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The cave children, Tommy, 12, Nancy, 10, and Johnny, 15, were back in their mountain home today after a tortuous ten mile trip down the mountain and back again. Nancy had broken her leg.

There was no doctor and no means of conveyance to a doctor. So the brothers made a "saddle" by locking their hands together and "toted" Nancy down the side of the mountain. The leg was set by a local doctor and despite advice to leave her here the boys "toted" her back home again in the same fashion.

400 EXTRA DRY SHELL GASOLINE

BETTER SNAPPIER MORE LIVELY

At the price of ordinary gasoline

Keep a record—watch your expenses—make comparisons—see for yourself how much LESS it costs to run your car on 400 "Extra Dry" than any other gasoline that sells at the regular price.

Full mileage from every gallon. Yes—and that's only one of the many good results you may expect from this superior gasoline. Instant starting in any weather—swift getaway when the green light flashes—acceleration that thrills and exhilarates—and in addition to all this, a cleaner, sweeter-running motor with less expense for valve grinding and general overhauling.

The reason is plain—Shell Gasoline is refined by a revolutionary process that takes only the most volatile elements from the crude. It is extra dry, which means it is ALL gasoline. Every drop vaporizes—every particle is converted into power—there are no impurities or greasy particles to clog up the spark plugs, pass the pistons unburned and dilute the oil in the crankcase.

Treat your car to this better gasoline. You will find it on sale at all Shell yellow-red service stations and Shell Dealers at the regular price—not one cent extra for its extra quality, or the extra service it will give you.

WARMER WEATHER HELPS DISPEL INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC IN COUNTY

After raging through the county the past eight weeks, the epidemic of grip and influenza is believed to be now on the wane, in the opinion of local physicians.

One county doctor declared that he had attended 1,400 cases of a mild form of "flu" during the past ten weeks. Whole families have been stricken at one time, making the number of cases greater and the problem of physicians in caring for the sick more difficult.

There have been as many cases of influenza as in 1918, when an epidemic swept the country, but it is in a much milder form, one doctor said. There have been no fatalities from the disease reported in this county, but attacks often leave the victim with serious complications.

An epidemic of measles in Greene County is expected by doctors, with the report of a number of cases in scattered communities, the last few days.

Clear eyes. Fresh complexion. Buoyant spirits. They all come when the right kind of food is eaten. One of the main things that our modern diet lacks is the roughage necessary to prevent constipation, which is the cause of so much ill health.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will furnish the bulk you need to keep well and fit.

ALL-BRAN is 100 per cent bran. It supplies roughage in effective quantities. Far better than part-bran products. At best, they can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed

SEAGRAVE TRUCK IS TESTED BY FIREMEN HERE ON THURSDAY

City officials expressed satisfaction with the unofficial test following the demonstration here Thursday of a fire truck with an auxiliary centrifugal pump, manufactured by The Seagrave Corp., Columbus, O.

The apparatus is designed for a guaranteed capacity of 750 gallons of water per minute.

The first test was made at the lagoon in Shawnee Park, drafting water from the pond. The testing gauge showed a seventeen-inch vacuum, on the suction side of the pump, which is equal to about a twenty-foot lift.

Since the suction strainer was partly buried in the mud, the test was conducted under somewhat unusual circumstances.

On the discharge side, using two fifty-foot hose lines, one attached to a one-inch nozzle and the second connected with an inch and one-eighth nozzle, the pump showed 120 pounds pressure. After figuring off loss by friction and deducting this, the one-inch nozzle showed 112 pounds pressure, or a volume of 312 gallons per minute, and the one and one-eighth inch nozzle, 106 pounds pressure, or 292 gallons per minute, a total volume of 704 gallons under the existing conditions.

This was considered a most satisfactory demonstration.

The second test was conducted at a six-inch fire hydrant, pumping from a six-inch water main at the end of Corwin Ave.

With water pressure of seventy pounds at the hydrant, two fifty-foot hose lines were used, both nozzles having one and three-eighths inch openings.

The pump showed ninety-eight pounds pressure. After discounting a certain amount of friction at the discharge nozzles, each nozzle showed eighty-eight pounds pressure. In terms of volume, each line produced 519 gallons per minute, throwing a total of 1,038 gallons per minute. This was far over the guaranteed capacity.

The demonstration was also witnessed by city officials of Miamiburg, O., including the mayor, members of the council and the service director. Miamiburg has under consideration the purchase of two pumps to make its fire department more efficient as a result of a recent disastrous fire.
